Little David's Six Guns—

While Soviet diplomats were attacking France, England and the United States, the Communist paper "Volksstimme" threw a blast at David Eisenhower, who is six years old and the President's grandson. Reason? David had his picture made (and published) pointing a toy "cowboy" pistol.

The Soviet paper said: "The revolver in the hand of Eisenhower's 6-year-old grandson is the image of the group ruling America, which wants to plunge the country into an orgy of war."

This is an excellent illustration of Soviet mentality and propaganda. When David grows up and has children of his own he can look at it and comfort himself when his own children go through the cowboy craze.

The cowboy is the folk hero of American childhood, and, for that matter, of many American adults. Nor is the cow poke an unworthy folk hero. He is a symbol of freedom and independence and a life devoid of regimented, conforming cares. For him the horizon was unlimited, save maybe for an occasional butte or mesa intruding itself. He is a symbol of the "independent man"—now unhappily dying out in the Republic.

'Good and Bad'

The cowboy also is for today's youth a symbol of the difference between "good" and "bad." As the cowboy film begins to roll on the movie or TV screens, the uninitiated latecomers quickly will have identified for them which are "the bad ones" and the "good ones." Once I escorted a pride of young lions to see a screen version of "Julius Caesar." Hardly had the conspirators been introduced when a sleeve was pulled and the question was put me, "Which are the bad ones and which are the good ones?" Once identified they settled down to see the bad ones bite the dust. They were a mite disturbed when the bad ones did Caesar to death in the bloody scene in the Forum, but I bade them be patient. The mills of the gods grind slowly, even in some of Shakespeare's plays—and, for that matter, in the life of nations.

Our own enchantment and preoccupation with our past grows out of restricting horizons and the confinement of today's industrial society, which has little time for a poem, a landscape, a song, and no patience at all with a rolling, tumbleweed cowboy life. So, we all retreat to it, in one way or another, in childhood and maturity.

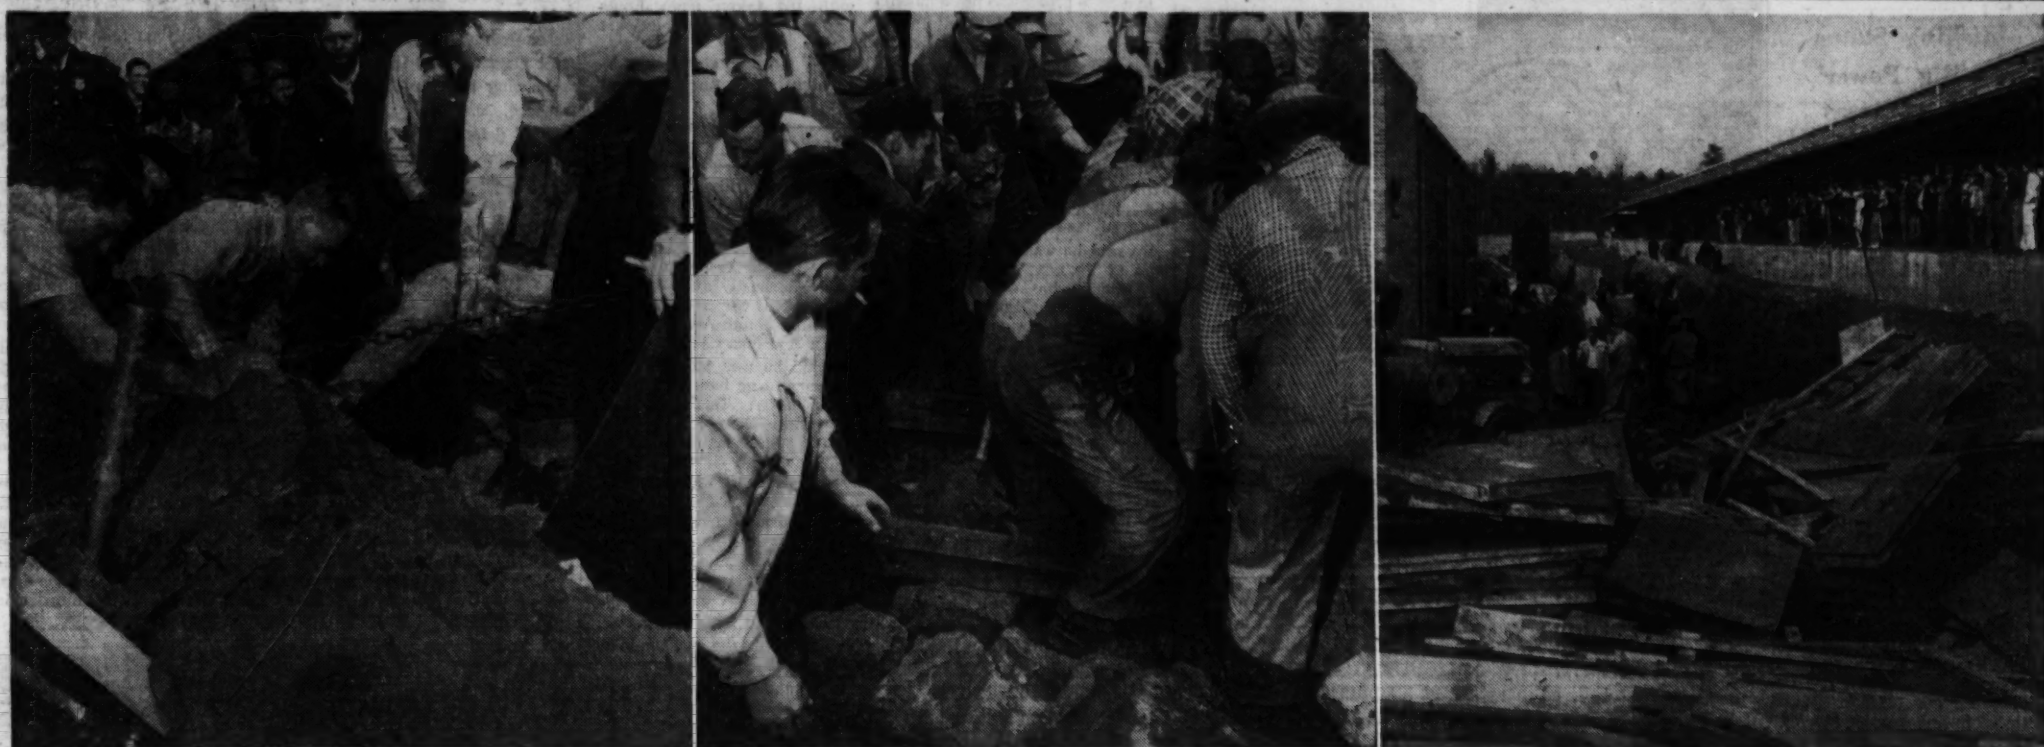

It is not difficult to understand the Russian reaction. The idea of a people wearing pistols and revolvers as a part of their daily costume horrifies any government which rules through a secret police terror.

Our Own

There are those of our own people who are horrified at the sight of a youngster with his cowboy boots and his set of twin sixes. But, there is no record on file which traces juvenile delinquency to a set of toy cowboy revolvers. Maybe crime movies are guilty, and without much doubt there are movies, comic books and trash newsstand stuff which properly are under attack.

But, not the old reliable, formula "western" in which "the good ones" always win out over "the bad ones." They have in a sense taken the place of the old "Buffalo Bill" and "Frank Merriwell" books of a by-gone generation which read them in barn lots and basements—they then being under parental ban. Actually, they were the great moral teachers of their time and did a more effective job than the average church school teacher. They taught that gambling and tricky deceit were wrong; that honesty and morality paid dividends.

Let the Soviets quit worrying about Little David Eisenhower. If all the guns pointed in this world were toy ones, and if the heart behind them were thinking in terms of "good cowboys" and "bad cowboys," and confident goodness will triumph over evil, this would be a happier world, worrying not at all about war.

Two Killed Here as Concrete-Rock Wall Caves In; Four Others Crushed Under Rubble

Two laborers were killed and four other persons were injured when a 10-foot rock retaining wall collapsed Wednesday at an industrial development area on Chattahoochee Ave. NW. The victims, Negroes, were digging a footing for a new wall to reinforce the section when the wall collapsed. Killed were W.

M. Serchion, 24, Luthersville, and J. B. Zachary, 19, Villa Rica. Critically injured were Luke Worthan, 33, Villa Rica; Willie Moseley, 36, 240 Bynum St. NE, and James McMurty, 19, Rte. 1, Austell. Edward McCouny, 26, Austell, suffered a mangled foot. The victims apparently were trying to get out of the ditch when the 125-foot section of the wall began to fall. They were trapped between the 20-inch-thick wall and the ground. In picture at left, rescue workers use chains to remove the crumbled wall. Center picture shows workers removing body from the debris, and at right is over-all picture of scene.

Bandits Tie Up 3 And Grab $3,100

A Cobb County resident, his wife and a visiting Marine Corps sergeant were bound with adhesive tape early Wednesday by two gunmen posing as revenue agents who forced their way into the home and escaped with $3,100 in money and jewelry, police said.

Farm Intake Slash Laid To Drought

By JIM MONTGOMERY

The Georgia drought of 1954 is over, but its effects are becoming more apparent by the month. In October, the Atlanta field office of the U.S. Commerce Department reported Wednesday, Georgia cash farm income dipped to $76,283,000—nearly 30 million dollars under the October 1953 receipts of $106,141,000.

This reduced the state's cash farm receipts in the first 10 months of 1954 to $498,481,000, or about 6.4 per cent under the $529,749,000 realized during the corresponding period a year ago.

By way of comparison, the seven-state Southeastern area recorded a 9.5 per cent decline, while for the nation as a whole cash farm income in the first 10 months of this year fell 4.2 per cent below the same 1953 period.

Only six states in the nation (including Florida in the Southeast) could point to increases in 1954 over 1953.

Most of the Georgia decrease came from returns on crop products, which declined from $311,824,000 in the 10-month 1953 period to $284,879,000 this year.

Georgia livestock receipts dropped, too—from $220,925,000 a year ago to $213,602,000 so far this year.

The October dip of 30 million dollars reflected the first large scale attack on the state's cash farm income.

Ed Williams, 50, of Oakdale—between Smyrna and Atlanta—told police he managed to free himself in time to get into his automobile and pursue the bandits four or five miles toward the new Marietta highway.

Mrs. Williams said Wednesday night that they had been the victims of a burglary once before, with $12,000 having been taken in 1946.

Capt. Ben W. Seabrook of the Atlanta Police Identification Bureau, said Williams previously had been arrested on gambling charges and federal liquor conspiracy law charges.

Officers said the bandits and a companion who was waiting in a getaway car evidently changed automobiles after losing Williams and were believed heading toward South Carolina. Police in North and South Carolina were notified.

Mrs. Williams said someone knocked at the door at 7 or 8 a.m. Wednesday. When she opened the door, one of two men standing

Sandra and Michael Thrill To a Warm, Cheery Yule Eve

By CELESTINE SIBLEY CHAPTER V

Sandra and Michael Dunstan thought they had never seen a prettier sight in their lives than the house to which Pete Mills and his cow, Fancy Lee, led them that cold December evening.

It was a humpbacked little house nudged up against a mountainside for warmth. It had no paint on its walls but a tangle of blue smoke from the chimney was busy sky-writing a welcome over its roof and its doorway, standing open, was a bright square of firelight.

They stood by the fireplace and felt the warmth of the flames steal achingly over their numb hands and feet while the voice of Pete's mother, who sat in a chair in the corner, warmed them with its welcome.

Her face was thin and pale but her voice was strong and hearty.

"Young'uns, git to stirring!" she called out to the four little girls, all younger than Pete, who made a circle about Sandra and Michael and stood smiling shyly.

"We got company—Christmas company!"

8-State Office On Housing Coming Here

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Constitution Washington Bureau WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—Coming establishment of six regional offices of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, including one at Atlanta, was announced here today by Administrator Albert M. Cole as a part of a new field office reorganization plan.

The Atlanta office will have jurisdiction over eight states. They are Georgia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Alabama, Florida and Mississippi.

Administrator Cole said the new reorganization plan was designed to "promote economy and public convenience and achieve closer program coordination."

Officials said the shifts, necessary to realign the regional boundaries of the various parts of HHFA, will take place as soon as possible. It is expected that most of the actions necessary to bring the regional boundaries into conformity will have taken place by June 30, 1955.

Snafu Issues 20,000 Old Coins Here

Some 100,000 rare old silver dollars—some with a collector's worth of 17 times their face value—have moved through the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank and others in this area because of a faux pas at the U.S. Mint at Philadelphia.

Numismatists put a catalog value on the coins of from $2 to $17 each.

The coins distributed here are part of three million "Liberty Head" silver dollars minted in the 1880s and released through a mistake at the mint.

The silver dollars were shipped out to federal reserve and branch banks by handlers who did not know the dates on the coins. Officials explained that the coins are stored in big undated bags, and it is against the law to open them until they reach the bank.

20,000 ISSUED HERE

R. E. Milling, assistant vice president in charge of currency and coin at the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, said approximately $100,000 of the dollars have been distributed through Sixth Federal Reserve District banks in Atlanta, Nashville, Birmingham, New Orleans and Jacksonville.

Some 20,000 of the coins moved through the Atlanta office, he said.

They were received by each bank directly from Philadelphia about three weeks ago, he said, and distribution to member banks of the system has been going on since that time.

As for calling the "rarities" back, Milling termed it "impossible."

Nor have the coins been "frozen," he said. They will be paid out to the system's member banks on demand until the supply is gone. Most of the coins have already been moved, however, Milling added.

VALUE WILL DROP

Value of the coins will drop, of course, with three million on the market, banking officials explained.

Mrs. Rae V. Biester, superintendent of the Philadelphia mint, said mint employees did not know they were "pulling the rug from under numismatists."

During the 1880s and early '90s, she said, certain issues of paper dollars called for redemption with a "silver dollar." To back up such silver certificates, bags of newly minted coins had been placed in the mint vaults.

Later, the promise on the bills was changed to read "payable in silver" without designating any specific coin. Demand for the heavy silver coins eventually lessened and later mintings were sufficient to supply the needs.

Plane Crash-Lands; 13 Missing in River

Combined From Wire Services

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 22—A DC3 non-scheduled airliner carrying 23 holiday-bound servicemen and a crew of five made a forced landing in the frigid waters of the Monongahela River near Dravosburg, Pa., tonight. First reports said 15 were rescued, several of whom were injured.

Jack Jenkins, chief controller at Greater Pittsburgh Airport said the plane was en route from Newark, N.J., to Pittsburgh when it was forced down.

TO HOSPITAL

The crash occurred near the big Irvin Works of U.S. Steel Corp., about 12 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. Injured pulled from the plane were taken to a hospital at McKeesport, about three miles away.

According to reports to airport officials the plane was owned by the Johnson Flying Service, of Missoula, Mont. It had been chartered at Newark by GI's returning from Germany and its ultimate destination was Colorado, according to the reports.

McKeesport and Pittsburgh police sent wrecking equipment to the scene and were attempting to pull the big two-engine craft from the swirling waters.

Police Lt. John S. Cameron, of McKeesport, said:

"Twenty-eight persons were reported on the ship when it hit the river," Cameron said. "The plane stayed afloat for at least 30 minutes until one wing started going under the water. I don't know if anyone was trapped but plenty of rescue workers are at the scene."

GAS LOW

Cause of the crash could not be determined. However, state police said their first reports were that the pilot was making an emergency landing because his gasoline supply was near exhaustion.

A towboat from U.S. Steel's fleet helped pick up the survivors.

Pittsburgh police radio, alerted a few seconds after the crash, immediately dispatched police cruisers and ambulances from nearby communities to the scene. The temperature was about 18 degrees.

Eisenhowers Due In Augusta Today

President and Mrs. Eisenhower will return to Georgia Thursday to spend another Christmas at Augusta.

The White House announced in Washington that they expect to leave the nation's capital at about 10:30 a.m., accompanied by Mrs. Eisenhower's mother, Mrs. Elvira Doud.

The scheduled departure time means that the Eisenhowers probably will arrive at Augusta at around 12:30 or 12:45 p.m., in the fast new presidential plane, The Columbine III.

1,601 From Korea

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—The Army said today the transport Gen. A. F. Anderson will arrive Friday with 1,601 Army personnel from Korea.

He was taken away to a mental institution. It was the treatment he had demanded, in preference to jail, before he would release terror-stricken Jessie Elizabeth Davis, 29, his tiny brunette ex-sweetheart.

Miss Davis was not harmed. Although haggard and shaken, she began to regain her composure as she was taken home by her minister. Mill officials and her family refused to let her give reporters a statement about her ordeal.

From 11:30 a.m. Tuesday until shortly before noon today, Timberlake had carried on his grotesque demonstration, barricaded behind crates in a brightly lighted pack room off the mill proper. Dozens of police, relatives of the barricaded couple and doctors

WANTS TO GO HOME Dr. Wei-Chin Liu

Dr. Wei-Chin Liu, 38-year-old Chinese chemist in Atlanta, who has been denied permission by the U.S. government to return to China, said Wednesday he would like to be exchanged for one of the 11 American airmen held by the Chinese Communists.

Dr. Liu, an associate professor at the Southern College of Pharmacy here, wants to go home to China because he is "homesick."

He has a pretty, black-haired wife and a 7-year-old son in Kunming, Yunnan Province—and he hasn't seen them in six years.

But he's one of an undisclosed number of Chinese "students" in this country denied exit permits by the American government. An exchange of these Chinese for the American prisoners has been proposed.

Dr. Liu came to the U.S. in August, 1948, and attended the University of Maryland until September, 1951. Since that time he has been teaching in Atlanta.

He is grateful, he emphasized, for the "kindness, friendship and hospitality" of Americans.

Dr. Liu is not a Communist and insists those who want to go home to China "are not necessarily Communists."

The Chinese professor is so popular with students at the College of Pharmacy that they dedicated their 1953 yearbook to him and paid tribute to his "gentleness, kindness, patience, understanding and friendly encouragement."

He forecast a temperature range of 34-60 for Thursday and said extremes Friday will be 40-55. The range here Wednesday was 30-55.

The drama was enacted in the room while Timberlake kept a .25-caliber pistol shoved against Miss Davis' abdomen. From time to time he would admit them singly or in twos or threes to parley. But he threatened, "I'll kill her if you come too close."

Scores of workers kept at their machines, spinning cotton yarn and winding it on spools. "We shut down at one time and he threatened to shoot her unless we started up," a mill official said.

Beaten Pact Cost Cited By Mendes

'Risking Status As Big Power'

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS, Dec. 22 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France today cautioned the French National Assembly that rejection of the treaties on rearmament of Germany might cost France her status as a big power.

Heeding repeated demands from the deputies for a new Big Four meeting to try to iron out frictions between the East and West, Mendes-France said that the first consideration was to solidify the Western alliance. He asserted that this can be accomplished only by French agreement to the treaties which will bring Germany into the Western camp as an equal partner.

LOSS OF INFLUENCE

"If the Assembly takes the grave step of a second refusal," Mendes-France declared, "there will no longer be any question of Four Power negotiations. A little later maybe there would be negotiations, but with two or three powers present, because our place would no longer be in the Atlantic alliance, at least we would no longer have any political influence. We would have no role to play in an eventual lessening of tensions."

The Premier's words were among those favoring thus far in support of the interlocking treaties as the Assembly's debate moved through its third day. Most of the fireworks have been saved for tomorrow, when the debate is scheduled to end.

EX-PREMIERS

Listed to speak tomorrow are former Premier Robert Schuman, Rene Mayer, Rene Pleven, Edouard Herriot and Mendes-France again. The Premier's brief statement today came as an interruption to an address by former Defense Minister Jules Moch.

At some point tomorrow, probably after all of the big names have had a chance to present their views, a motion probably will be introduced to postpone the debate. This will be the first test of Assembly sentiment on ratification.

Up for approval by the Assembly are the Paris treaty to admit Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Bonn accords to restore German sovereignty, and the French-German agreement on the Saar.

LONDON TREATY

"Technically involved, but never mentioned in the debate, is the London treaty to bring Germany and Italy into the Western European Union.

The Premier said only a big vote could help him press for the Big Four meeting, which he has suggested could be held in May. He declared:

"If your vote can be interpreted as a sign of weakness or hesitation, if the Assembly is cut into three almost equal parts (for, against and abstaining), if it can be speculated there may be a later contrary decision, I say to you with intense emotion, persuaded that I am serving the interest of the country, we will be less strong to press for the meeting in May."

Miami Dismisses Charge Father Murdered Girl, 7

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP)—The state dropped murder charges against James T. Roberts today but did not completely vindicate the Baltimore attorney in the kidnapping-slaying of his daughter, Judith Ann, 7.

THIS CAKE TAKES THE CAKE—WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—President Eisenhower appears delighted by this 100-pound cake in Christmas tree design which arrived at the White House today from the Young Men's Republican Club of Niagara Falls, N.Y. Standing 5½ feet tall, cake required 30 pounds of butter.

In a nolle prosequere (no prosecution) petition, approved by Circuit Judge Pat Cannon, the state attorney's office said it reserved the right to reinstate the charge at a later date if investigation turns up additional evidence.

State Atty. George Brautigam said he instituted the nolle prosequere action after learning that one of the state's key witnesses gave perjured testimony.

He said he would ask the grand jury at its next meeting to cite for perjury the witness, private investigator C. Clark Wood.

Judith Ann was taken from the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rosenberg, late July 6 or early July 7. Her battered body was found about 6:30 a.m. July 7 in tangled underbrush near South Bayshore Drive.

After weeks of investigation, Roberts was charged with murdering his daughter. He had been free in $10,000 bond since October, awaiting his trial set for Feb. 28. Today's action lifted the bond and freed Roberts of the court's jurisdiction.

"I'm glad the truth is out," Roberts said at his home in suburban Baltimore. "I hold no grudge or any hard feelings."

"I know they are only law en-

Robber Ties Victim With Burglar Alarm

NEWARK, N.J., Dec. 22 (AP)—When a robber stuck up a radio shop here, he introduced a bit of irony—by tying up the victim with a wire ripped from the shop's burglar system.

Then he made off last night with $60 taken from Louis Landau, operator of the Court Radio Shop.

The burglar alarm, unfortunately, was turned off at the time.

forcement officials doing what they believed was their duty. I only hope they find the murderer of my daughter and continue until they do."

Wood had testified that he saw Roberts and an unidentified woman July 7, shortly after midnight, in a parked car near the spot where little Judith Ann's body was found a few hours later.

He said he was able to fix the time because he had been trailing another party. This person, he said, paid his check in a downtown Miami nightclub within a few minutes of midnight. He was following this person from the club when he saw Roberts, he said.

Acting on a tip from the Miami Daily News, state investigators learned Saturday that the club Wood named was closed the night of July 6 because its license had been suspended temporarily.

In asking that the charge against Roberts be dropped, the state said:

"It is apparent that the state cannot rely on the very material testimony of the witness... Wood... and your state attorney would be guilty of a breach of his trust and duty in view of the facts now known to him, to ask your honor or a jury of citizens of this community to place reliance on the testimony of the witness."

Wood could not be reached immediately for comment.

During the period the state says Judith Ann was whisked away and killed, Roberts said he was with a divorce client, Mrs. Dorothy Lawrence, making a round of night spots in an effort to find her a job. Mrs. Lawrence gave a similar account.

Tenn. Cop With a Sewing Machine Gets Feel of Life's Seamy Side

MEMPHIS, Dec. 22 (AP)—M. D. Walker stands 6 feet 2, weighs 215 pounds, packs a pistol—and sews a fine seam.

Ask 6-year-old Barbara Jo Walker where she gets her pretty dresses and she'll tell you, "Daddy made them."

Walker, a state highway patrolman, said today he took up sewing as a hobby two years ago. In that time, he said he's made about three dozen dresses for Barbara Jo and several for his wife.

It all started when Walker gave his wife a sewing machine for Christmas. Mrs. Walker didn't take to sewing. But the big cop did.

Liberace's Heart Off-Beat; Stay Flat, Doctor Orders

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22 (AP)—Liberace has been confined to his king-size bed with heart strain it was revealed today, but all hands agreed the trouble came from overwork, not romance.

The curly haired pianist was ordered by Dr. Joseph I. Marx to take a long rest because of a "mild and temporary heart strain due to lack of rest."

MOM AT SIDE

His mother, Mrs. Frances Liberace, proclaimed that Liberace's heart was hurt only by his piano playing and not by any girl friends.

"He is resting in bed and is not talking to anyone but close friends," said the gray-haired mother. "I am taking care of him."

"He has been giving so many concerts, working and traveling so much without any vacation. He is not sick, just resting. And whoever said this had something to do with Joanne Rio, there's something wrong with that party," she added firmly.

Miss Rio, who was jilted by the pearly toothed pianist after she wrote a series of articles about their love, insisted Liberace was not suffering from any broken romance.

CHRISTMAS CARD

"My aunt went over to see him yesterday but I haven't seen him or talked to him," she said. "I feel very badly about his illness. I sent him a Christmas card," she added, "but I haven't gotten one from him yet."

"Liberace's attorney, John R. Jacobs, issued a statement that "there is no cause whatsoever for concern on the part of Liberace's legion of friends for his physical health."

Sheppard Attorneys Plan Appeal to Supreme Court

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 22 (AP)—Attorneys for Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard promised today to carry his fight for a new trial to the Ohio Supreme Court—and possibly the U.S. Supreme Court—to upset yesterday's conviction which gave him life imprisonment in the slaying of his wife.

The formal petition for a new trial must be filed in three days. A hearing has already been set for Dec. 30.

Chief defense attorney William J. Corrigan, who was denied bail for his 30-year-old client when he obtained a stay of execution of the sentence, was expected to make another try for freedom for Dr. Sheppard a week from tomorrow.

The stunned prisoner, meanwhile, spent the day in an "observation" cell in County Jail where he can be checked constantly. Sheriff Joseph M. Sweeney explained the move was routine for persons convicted of murder to guard against the possibility of suicide.

Sweeney said Sheppard had largely regained his composure after the verdict was announced.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin, who heard the 10-week trial, will rule on the new trial motion. Should he reject it, Corrigan could then take the motion to the appeals court.

Assistant defense counsel Arthur Petersilge, who is the family's personal attorney, confirmed reports that the appeal would be vigorously sought.

Although the seven men and five women composing the jury still declined to discuss the case in detail, fragmentary second-day deliberations were taken up largely in determining the degree of the defendant's guilt.

The Cleveland Press said 18 ballots were cast and that two women jurors voted late Friday—the first day of the 102 hours they had the case—to acquit him of the bedroom bludgeoning of his wife, Marilyn, 31, on July 4.

They swung over Saturday to the majority, the newspaper said, and on Tuesday at 4:10 p.m. the panel had decided that the "defendant, Sam H. Sheppard, was not guilty of murder in the first degree, but guilty of murder in the second degree."

British Give 'Cut-Rate Spy' 5 Years for Aiding Russia

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP)—A 27-year-old Communist clerk who once was employed in a British military office was sentenced to five years in prison today for spying on British defense installations for the Russians.

John Clarence, bespectacled and studious, was tried in secret session at the Old Bailey Court where British scientist Klaus Fuchs received a 14-year sentence for betraying atomic secrets to Russia.

Clarence's case became known as that of the "cut-rate spy" because he admitted the Russians paid him only a few dollars for his efforts.

He was convicted on all four counts of the espionage charges against him. He was accused of fathering British defense information, primarily on coastal anti-aircraft batteries, and passing it to Soviet embassy diplomats.

Among the data he gathered while working as a clerk in an office of the home guard was said to be the code word for mobilizing the anti-aircraft defenses of the Northumberland North Sea coast in event of an attack.

His conviction was expected to result in a British demand for a Soviet shakeup in its diplomatic staff here.

According to pretrial testimony, the Soviet embassy instructed Clarence to distribute propaganda among Russian refugees living in London and to spy on them.

In following out other orders, it was testified, Clarence called at the Grosvenor Square headquarters of the U.S. Navy's Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean Command.

The Russian embassy instructed Clarence to "ingratiate" himself at the U.S. Navy headquarters, Scotland Yard agents said. U.S. Navy spokesmen said Clarence was not known to them.

Industries Mean More State Revenue

Georgia was made richer during 1954 by 11,250 new industrial jobs and a $28,000,000 addition to the state payrolls.

The figures, released yesterday by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce, also show that 185 new plants were built in the state during the year, or additions were made to existing plants at a cost of approximately $32,250,000.

The news came on the heels of an address by Gov.-Elect Marvin Griffin in which he announced that one of the policies of his administration would be the maintenance of a favorable climate for industry.

The governor-elect pointed out that, while the drought cut deeply into the income of the farmers, state sales tax collections nevertheless were higher than in the preceding year when the agricultural situation was better. He concluded, and rightly, that the gain in tax collections was due to an increase in industrial payrolls, a deduction that was backed up by the state chamber's figures.

As the year nears its end, good business news continues to mount. Atlanta merchants have reported record-breaking Christmas business, and the same situation is doubtless true in other Georgia metropolitan centers. And the latest Dun & Bradstreet reports show extraordinary gains in the number of new enterprises in the Atlanta area.

The land is the basis of all wealth, and what hurts the farmer eventually hurts the businessman. Despite this year's drought and lower farm income, the year, nevertheless, was good for Georgians in general as the sales tax collections prove. While the state government faces many financial problems, and the future at times looks gloomy indeed, the favorable industrial climate promised by the governor-elect certainly is the long-range solution to balancing the budget and at the same time providing adequate state services.

Carrollton Recognizes A Splendid Citizen!

Dr. Irving S. Ingram, veteran president of West Georgia College, has been elected Carrollton's "Man of the Year" and presented with a scroll and portfolio case as evidence of the fact.

We can't think of a better choice. In fact, we would move Dr. Ingram be named Georgia's Man of the Year in education and we'd be willing, on the record, to match him in a national contest for that honor.

No unit of the University System has so well demonstrated how a college may integrate itself with the life of its community and bring to the people a more meaningful and richer life than has West Georgia under Dr. Ingram. He has had, of course, the help of a wonderful lot of people who long ago moved their county to the fore in education and participation in public affairs.

But it has been the unselfish contribution of Dr. Ingram and his inspired faculty which has made "The College in the Country" bring interest, pride and progress to many small communities which found themselves drying up and losing contact with the life and thought of their state and nation.

This has been done through adult classes, initiated and planned by the communities. The faculty has provided the instruction. It is, we believe, the finest example in the nation of a college making itself felt in the lives of all the people, and not confining itself merely to the students on the campus.

We salute Carrollton's citizens and their choice for Man of the Year. The city the county and their choice all reflect one another in cooperation and accomplishment.

Reece Committee Report Is Completely Biased

The Reece Committee to investigate the tax-exempt foundations has rendered a majority report in which one of the majority members dissented on many points. It finally comes out as the single-handed conclusions of one man, Rep. Reece (R-Tenn.), who announced in advance what he was going to prove.

The minority members of the committee filed a blistering dissent attacking the report as a "crackpot" view by persons suffering from "fear sickness."

The foundations themselves point out that the report is completely biased. The committee did not allow them to testify. It heard only one side of the story, issuing its report on the basis of the unfavorable testimony it heard. At best, this can be regarded as unfair and unreliable.

The foundations have contributed greatly to American life and the American system. Especially their work in the fields of health and education have benefited almost every community in the nation. While they are tax-exempt, they have poured millions into the country's schools, colleges and hospitals in lieu of taxes. They have, for instance, helped to lick diseases that once killed our citizens by the thousands.

In the best McCarthy style, the committee lumps all its critics into the report in an effort to discredit them.

The foundations may deserve a critical appraisal now and then. But this completely biased Reece report is worthless as an objective study of their work.

Molotov's Big Bluff Could Be His Last

Bravo for Britain! Told by the Russians to get right on the German rearmament question or face cancellation of the 1942 friendship treaty, the British boldly replied, "Go right ahead, if you wish."

In doing so they are merely facing realities of a situation that has existed for quite some time. There has been no friendship from Russia for any of the free world since shortly after the wartime alliance fell apart.

The British reaction will give the French added courage in meeting the same threat. The Mendes-France government has been told that the Soviet Union will break off a mutual defense pact if the London agreements are ratified.

Signs for early approval of those agreements in Paris and Bonn look brighter than ever before. And if they are approved, the West will be stronger and in a better bargaining position with the Reds than at any time since the end of World War II.

Observers predict that successful completion of the new attempt at Western unity will be the beginning of the end of Mr. Molotov, the tough Soviet foreign minister. There are evidences of a split in the top Russian leadership about what action to take over Western policies in Germany.

Molotov is the only top man in Soviet government who is advocating drastic steps and should he fail to block German rearmament, he will be in extreme hot water. To date there has been no flinching at his threats.

So-Called Speed Traps Trap Only the Speeders

Praise be to Bob Taylor, Newark (N.J.) News staff writer, for his accurate analysis of Southern "speed traps." Mr. Taylor recently did a story for his paper's Sunday magazine on driving from New Jersey to Florida.

In it he gave his constituency this: "Unless you're a demon driver, plan to take three days for the trip each way, and don't overspeed. The so-called police 'road traps' on the way—about which you may have heard—generally turn out to be trapping motorists going 70 to 90 miles an hour. Observe the speed laws and you'll have no trouble."

That's good advice for all motorists, domestic or foreign. By far the greater number of drivers who are "trapped" think to ignore posted speed limits. It's encouraging to find in Newark's Bob Taylor a Northern travel editor who recognizes that truth.

Cotton Still Reigns Over the Empire State

Despite agricultural diversification, cotton remains something of a king in Georgia.

The crop withstands heat and drought as well as any crop, and better than most. Although it demands a lot of that scarce item, labor, some areas of the state still regard it with almost single-minded devotion.

Under the new allotments, it looks like Burke County will continue as Georgia's biggest grower of cotton. Crop diversification is popular in Burke and so is tree farming. Nevertheless, Burke will plant over 38,180 acres of cotton this year on its rolling lands. Other counties that will plant 20,000 acres or more are Laurens, Colquitt, Jefferson and Walton, each well-suited to cultivation of the crop by reasons of soil, topography and tradition.

At the other end of the scale are the mountain counties of Union, Towns and Fannin. They will grow no cotton at all. Right behind them are the coastal counties, too busy with pines and tourists to bother much with cotton.

The allotment for Georgia as a whole will be less than 1,000,000 acres, a reduction of approximately 20 per cent from last year. Although much less of a factor in the state's economy than it once was, cotton survives nicely and in fact flourishes in those sections which are well adapted to its cultivation.

Georgia 'Poppy Lady' Created a Symbol By Giving Red Poppies to Georgia Soldiers

Atlanta—Meet the "Poppy Lady." You will find her likeness caught in marble in Georgia's Hall of Fame at the State Capitol.

The red poppy is the Shirley Poppy of France, of World War I, and of the famed Flanders Fields.

What more fitting symbol of their memory than the crimson Shirley Poppy? Miss Moira Michael gave red flowers to the Georgia wounded soldiers in a New York hospital, and Georgians began easily identifying each other.

The Augusta convention of the American Legion adopted the red poppy as the Legion flower and official memorial emblem on Aug. 21, 1920. Other states followed the lead of Georgia.

In 1921, the auxiliary to the American Legion, organized at Kansas City, adopted the Flanders Field Memorial Poppy as its emblem of remembrance. The idea came to this auxiliary that our own disabled World War veterans in our hospitals make the poppies and the income be used to rehabilitate our own needy veterans and their families.

No spoken or written word can adequately describe a person of such energy, patriotic enthusiasm and consecration as Moira Michael.

Georgia is honored to have given the "Poppy Lady" to America and to the world, for the poppy symbol has spread through the English-speaking nations.

Airmen-Student Swap Would Be Timely

St. Louis, Mo.—Red China should let our eleven airmen come home to enjoy a White Christmas. I'm sure Americans are willing for the 35 Chinese students to go home and have a Red Christmas.

We ought to send the Reds some of our patent medicines, they've helped many cranky people in this country. FRED WEAVER.

America Has Chance For Propaganda Win

Mount Vernon, N.Y.—Our State department's refusal to make a deal with the Chinese Communist government to get our jailed airmen back, in return for permission for the Chinese students who were caught over here when the Communists took over China to return to China, does not seem wise. It is bitterly unfair to our jailed airmen and their families.

There were originally about 5,000 of these students; and they were all free to go back until China entered the Korean war. Only from then on were they barred from leaving the United States, so it is practically certain that only a handful would choose to return now.

We won a great propaganda victory when a great percentage of the Chinese and North Korean prisoners chose not to go back under Communist control. We could have another similar propaganda victory if the State department had sense enough to agree to exchange the Chinese students who wanted to return for our airmen. In fact, it would be wise for us to get rid of those who wanted to go back.

Depth of Democratic Victory Emphasizes GOP Weakness

Final reports and continuing studies of the Nov. 2 election results continue to emphasize the depth of a Democratic victory that was not obvious at first glance on Nov. 3.

V. O. Key Jr., professor of government at Harvard, has now compiled results of state legislative contests.

He tells of his findings in the current New Republic magazine. They indicate a solid Democratic strength (or serious Republican weakness) at the grass roots.

Outside of the South, Democrats registered legislative gains in 35 out of 38 states and territories. Over-all results: Democrats gained 544. (Prof. Key said 545, but that was before a recount in one Wisconsin assembly district.) They lost only six seats.

In only Nevada and Tennessee did Democrats lose over-all legislative strength.

The Democratic legislative gains came in a belt across the northern edge of the country. It was a belt roughly correlating with areas of the most unemployment, the dairy section and states where party leadership is new, aggressive and liberal. It was the best year since the 1930's for the party in many Northern states.

Some of the gains in legislative lower houses: Maine, 24 to 34; Vermont, 7 to 21; Delaware, 17 to 29; Pennsylvania, 98 to 112; Michigan, 34 to 51; Wisconsin, 25 to 36; South Dakota, 2 to 18; Mon-

Man's First Gifts Came From God

I want to talk for a moment or two about Christmas gifts. Yesterday I mentioned that God was the first giver of a Christmas gift. His gift was His choicest possession, His Son, the Christ Child. And men of faith, wishing to engage in an exchange of gifts, have never found anything as worthy to offer as the gift of themselves, their love and devotion.

But there is much superficial talk these days about Christmas gifts.

I suppose there has been much exploitation by commercial concerns of the tradition of giving gifts at Christmas. We have been made to feel that it is essential and necessary to give gifts. The giving of various tokens and trinkets seems to be the adequate measurement of one's love or friendship for another person. Like potted plants at Easter or chocolates on Valentine's Day, the business world has established in our minds the necessity and almost the requirement of giving gifts at this time of year.

The giving of gifts has become burdensome to many, and some valid objections to the commercial exploitation of sentiment have been raised. There is very real basis for these criticisms. One business house, for instance, advertised that all a person needs to do is to contact its personal shopper, tell her the age and sex of the person you want to send most to the rest. The shopper will select a gift, put in an appropriate greeting card, wrap the gift, mail it—and bill you after January 1.

And also many gifts that are purchased at this time have little or no meaning. A man told me a year ago that he had made a terrible mistake. He had received a number of meaningless and useless gifts. He put these away and the following Christmas took them out again and gave them to friends. It just so happened that he had just received from him the year before!

I hope that instances such as these are rare, for the tradition of Christmas giving is good. On the whole, I don't think the business world has injured the spirit of Christmas. They have emphasized the importance of the season and in many, many ways remind us that we ought to be thoughtful of other people, to give in such ways that we spread cheer. None of us do this often enough.

Always, however, we must keep Christmas giving on a personal basis which expresses our love and thought for another person. The gifts which have always meant most to me are those things which come from the heart. Money spent doesn't make a gift meaningful. Rather it is the thought, the kindness, the love which the gift interprets. The heart responds more to little hand-made presents than to costly gifts.

President to Court Coalition Congress

WASHINGTON—The outlook is that the essentials of President Eisenhower's legislative program will fare exceptionally well at the hands of the new Democratic-controlled Congress.

The mellow mood which marked the two days of White House conferences with the party leaders this past week does not, of course, mean that there will not be some political stiletto-throwing during the coming season.

But there are three factors which suggest that the President's relations with Congress will be better than many forecast. They are these:

1. The political center of the new Congress, regardless of party, is very near to the President's own political position. It is moderate and middle-road. In conviction and in instinct it stands for nearly what Mr. Eisenhower stands for. This means that although we will have a divided government, the President will have a "coalition Congress" on which he can count in most critical matters.

2. The President intends to expound and advocate his legislative proposals to the country more vigorously and more frequently than he has done during the past two years. He aims to generate a popular national coalition which will give support to the congressional coalition.

3. Democratic leaders, particularly Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, were impressed at the White House meeting with Mr. Eisenhower's determination to keep all questions affecting defense, security, economic aid and foreign policy above partisan considerations. They are genuinely convinced of the President's dedication to this purpose. One of them said with great earnestness after the meeting: "Talk of a political cold war between the President and Congress is a myth."

There will inevitably be areas of controversy, sharp controversy. The Democrats will try hard to reverse the flexible farm price support program and reinstate rigid supports. The majority will oppose amending the Taft-Hartley law unless the amendments are mostly pro-labor. They will seek to lower taxes even while criticizing the President for an unbalanced budget. They will oppose statehood for Hawaii if they can't be assured of statehood for Alaska.

But there will be Democratic defections even on issues like these and if the Republicans can achieve some unity among themselves the likelihood is that the President's program will emerge substantially unscathed.

The Democratic strategy will be to oppose the administration vigorously where there are real cleavages of party policy, and to try to make enough changes in the measures which they do support so that the legislation will bear a Democratic imprimatur and as much of a Democratic label as possible.

This is perfectly reasonable and in such maneuvers Mr. Eisenhower will not be without resources.

GOP Will Campaign On 'Peace' Platform

WASHINGTON—It was only a coincidence that two events occurred here on the same day.

1. Secretary of Defense Wilson's announcement at a news conference in the afternoon that President Eisenhower had ordered a speedup in reduction in our military forces that will cut them by 403,000 by June 30, 1956—from 3,218,000 now to 2,815,000. Originally this latter figure was not to be reached until a year later, June 30, 1957.

2. A big dinner powwow at the White House the same night where the President and his chief political advisers—his political "kitchen cabinet"—canvassed the political outlook and discussed plans to win the 1956 national election.

Though coincidental only, politicians saw a connection between these two events which would be apparent to few outside the trade. The magic word which was the link so far as politicians are concerned is "peace," a word much emphasized, incidentally, by the President lately.

In short, political managers, those gathered at the White House and others not there, expect to lean heavily on peace as the dominant 1956 issue.

Republican politicians, whose business it is to win elections and stay in power and not concern themselves with global strategy or international power politics, were gratified to hear from Secretary Wilson that the President had ordered the military force reductions because of the diminished threat of war.

They also recognized another political factor in the defense secretary's confident assurance that President Eisenhower is in "a bet-

Dear Santa: Please Add The Strays to Your List

By ALEX JOINER JR.

Dear Santa Claus: Thought you'd like to know—some of your mail has gone astray and wound up in the dead letter office at the Atlanta Post Office.

No fault of the post office, of course, because one was addressed to the South Pole. And the writing on most of them is pretty hard to decipher.

One is from little Jim Smith of 2164 Collins Dr. Jim wants a "real sword, some armor for the arms and legs and a planetarium."

And there's one from Betsy Primm, 427 N. Blount St., Raleigh, N.C. Betsy's listed 27 different things but, she adds, "if you don't bring me anything, give Becky a lots of noisy items." Becky is her little sister.

Mary Lillian Savell of Atlanta asks please "if I have been good" bring her a "blackboard and a four-poster bed with canopy."

Young Charley DuVall claims he has been good "most of the year" and would like "a pioneer suit and an Indian suit (so he can fight on both sides?) and a punching bag. Charley, diplomatically, thanks you for last year's toys.

Douglas Bryant, 3735 Narmore Dr., N.E., a man of parts apparently, desires a "toy typewriter and a walkie-talkie and a barber-shop kit and a new paint brush . . . and a surprise!"

Mary Marion Busby, in case the hand-lettering failed, drew pictures of what she'd like to find under the tree: a baby doll and a little buggy.

Baby Bottle Both Clue and Villain In Mysterious Case of Vandalism

A shattered baby bottle became the clue that solved a mysterious case of "vandalism," Atlanta police said Thursday.

A housewife called in police when she returned home to find her kitchen "turned upside down." She reported that vandals had left a gas jet open on the kitchen stove, filling the house with gas, and that they had dumped containers of flour, sugar, tea, coffee and meal on the floor.

Police investigated and found particles of glass embedded in the underside of a shelf over the stove and other glass on the floor. The crystallized nipple from the bottle was found nearby.

The housewife said a bottle of milk had been left to warm in a pan of water on the stove. Police said the case was solved by simple deduction:

The bottle overheated and exploded, sending a shower of glass into a shelf over the stove. Force of the blast jarred the cooking ingredients from the shelf and extinguished the flame under the pan of water, leaving the gas jet open.

Crashing Car Blacks Out Area

Electrical service was disrupted temporarily Wednesday night in the West Paces Ferry road

The accident occurred in the 1700 block of West Paces Ferry road. Sgt. J. P. Eaves and Ptl. R. T. Appling said two youths climbed out of the car after the accident and fled on foot. The automobile was impounded.

And then, Santa Claus, he ran out of breath.

Laughead's Sister Wants Him in Asylum

LANSING, Mich., Dec. 22.—A petition was filed in Ingham County probate court today to commit Dr. Charles A. Laughead to a mental institution because his belief that he is to create a new age "is now having its effect on his family."

Laughead was recently fired as a Michigan State College doctor because he "upset" students by predicting the end of the world.

Margaret Laughead, Des Moines, Iowa, Laughead's sister, petitioned the court to commit Laughead and his wife to an institution as "religious fanatics."

Laughead, 44, predicted last week that a tidal wave would engulf Chicago Tuesday.

TVA Okays Wage Boosts To Employees

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22.—The Tennessee Valley Authority board of directors has approved wage increases ranging from 5 to 12½ cents hourly for 9,000 TVA construction workers. Another 5,000 salaried workers received increases of $100 to $150 a year.

Aubrey J. Wagner, TVA general manager, said today that a few hourly classifications received no increase. Hourly scale now ranges from $1.42½ for laborers to $3.15 for bricklayers.

The new wage agreements were negotiated recently at the 20th annual wage conference between TVA management and the Tennessee Valley Trades and Labor Council. Negotiations ended Dec. 18.

"The new rates reflect increases negotiated between private employers and unions in the eight-state TVA region during the past 12 months," Wagner said. The TVA act requires TVA to pay its trade and labor employees rates prevailing among private industry in the area for similar work.

The council represents 15 AFL craft unions bargaining for workers employed by TVA. Wagner said that the new wage schedule goes into effect Jan. 1 for hourly workers and Jan. 2 for annual employees.

Illegal Baby Adoptions Laid to Phenix Doctor

PHENIX CITY, Ala., Dec. 22.—Dr. Seth J. Floyd, Phenix City physician and member of the city commission, was arrested today on charges he induced parents to give up children for adoption.

He was charged in three counts on warrants sworn out by Capt. Richard A. Peacock, who had investigated reports that a baby racket was operating in wide-open Phenix City prior to establishment of limited martial rule here in July.

Floyd was permitted to post $250 bond in each case. Names of the children involved were not divulged.

The warrants were sworn jointly against Dr. Floyd and his wife, Alice Floyd.

The warrants charged the Floyds unlawfully advertised children for adoption, or "did hold out

The gift by Mrs. John Newton Goddard in memory of her husband was announced Wednesday night at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority at the Piedmont Driving Club.

The board voted unanimously to accept the gift.

Frank Wilson, secretary-treasurer of the board and superintendent of Grady Hospital, said Grady has needed such a chapel "for a long time." He said the proposed John Newton Goddard Memorial Chapel will be used for religious services, graduation exercises, weddings, meditation and prayer and related purposes.

BUSINESS LEADS

Mr. Goddard, who died in 1948, was chairman of the executive committee of the Trust Company of Georgia for many years, a director of the Coca-Cola Co. and one of Atlanta's leading businessmen.

The chapel in his memory, Wilson said, will be designed by Philip Shutze, Atlanta architect. It will include an organ.

Trustees passed a resolution thanking Mrs. Goddard for her "gracious generosity."

Hughes Spalding, chairman of the board of the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority, was host to the trustees at a Christmas dinner party. His guests also included commissioners of Fulton and DeKalb counties and several county officials.

APPRECIATION

The board passed resolutions expressing appreciation for the long support of Scott Candler, DeKalb County commissioner, and I. Gloer Hailey and R. L. "Shorty" Doyal, Fulton County commissioners, all of whom will soon vacate their county offices.

Spalding presented large silver wine coolers to Hailey, Doyal, Candler, Fulton Commissioners Tom Camp, Archie Lindsey and Jim Aldredge; Fulton County Manager A. E. Fuller; Frank Fling, clerk of the Fulton Commission; James Respass, county auditor, and Katherine Barnwell, reporter for The Atlanta Constitution.

He said the silver gifts were in appreciation of their "loyal support and interest" in the Fulton-DeKalb Hospital Authority and Grady Hospital.

SILVER PITCHER

The board of trustees gave Spalding a silver pitcher and passed a resolution expressing "respect, admiration and friendship" for the chairman.

Annual reports on operations of the hospital authority in 1954 were made by chairmen of the various committees. I. Carl Milner, chairman of the building and grounds committee, said present estimates are that the new Grady Hospital will be completed on or before July 1, 1956.

He said total construction cost, including furnishings, now is estimated at $24,959,987.

Other reports were made by John Sibley, chairman of the finance committee; Frank Thomas, chairman of the trust committee, and Charlie Brown, chairman of the personnel and public relations committee.

inducements to the parent or parents" to permit adoption, and took those steps without the approval of any juvenile court or of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Several months ago Maj. Gen. Walter J. Hanna, commanding the state troops here, said his officers were investigating the handling of adoptions here.

Floyd, 56, has been a member of the city commission here for about 20 years. He is the only member of the three-man commission who has been in office both before and after the vice cleanup here started six months ago.

Pope Urges Chinese To Keep Faith

By ARNALDO CORTESI
New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
ROME, Dec. 22—Pope Pius XII has addressed an encyclical letter to the Chinese archbishops, bishops, the clergy and the faithful, urging them to stand firm against attempts now being made by the enemies of religion to enlist their support for a national or schismatic Catholic church of China.

NOT CATHOLIC

A national church, said the Pope, cannot in any way be considered Catholic, because it would be a negation of the universality or "Catholicity" that causes the society founded by Jesus Christ to be above all nations and to embrace them all.

Today's encyclical was the 29th issued by the present Pope in the 15 years and nine months of his pontificate. It will be known from the first words of the Latin text as Ad Sinarum Gentem (to the Chinese people.) Though published by the Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano only today, it is dated from St. Peter's Oct. 7.

WRITTEN 6 WEEKS AGO

The date makes it clear that the encyclical was written and signed long before Pope was afflicted by his present illness. The usual practice with such documents as encyclicals is to wait for a sufficient length of time (in the present case a month and a half) after the Pope signs them to permit them to be delivered. They are then published in Osservatore Romano.

After vigorously denying a charge made by the "persecutors of Christians," who falsely accuse them of not loving their country, the Pope urged Chinese Catholics to be respectful of their public authorities in the field that is rightly theirs, but also to affirm openly that they do not intend to reject the precepts of the Catholic religion or repudiate their Creator and Redeemers.

Edward R. Burk, 52, came to town in the judge's car, although he didn't know it at the time, and left town on a bus, his ticket to Boston paid for by court officials and police.

RIDE AND GIFT

After Burk hitchhiked to Clinton on Dec. 14 with Judge R. J. Herrmann, who gave him 25 cents as well as a ride, this, police said, is what he did:

Spent the quarter for a beverage other than the coffee Judge Herrmann recommended.

Took a flashlight and a pocketbook from a parked automobile. Offered to sell the articles to two separate individuals.

This is what he found out later: The parked car belonged to the chief of police.

The man to whom he tried to sell the flashlight was a town police commissioner.

The man to whom he tried to sell the pocketbook was a state policeman. In plain clothes.

Burk was arrested.

THE FACE'S THE SAME

In Town Court Tuesday night, Burk pleaded guilty to intoxication and larceny.

"How did you come to Clinton?" Judge Herrmann asked the defendant.

"A gentleman picked me up and

Lewis in Doghouse For Letting Dogs Out

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22 (AP)—Comedian Jerry Lewis is in the doghouse with the Department of Animal Regulation.

Deputy City Atty. Allen Klingensmith issued a complaint today charging Lewis and his wife with six counts of violating the leash law by letting dogs run loose.

The Lewises, who own seven dogs, are scheduled to answer the complaint Jan. 5 in West Los Angeles Municipal Court.

Hints Relief For Receivers Of Junk Mail

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Post Office Department is going to take another look at its regulations governing "junk mail"—those advertising circulars addressed to "Householder" or "Occupant."

Some 1,000 complaints have poured into the department during the past four months from congressmen and irritated "householders." A high official told the United Press today that something will be done about them soon.

The idea of sending advertising material without names or addresses is not new. Unaddressed "boxholder" mail has been delivered on rural routes for many years. But in August 1953 the department decided to extend the practice to city dwellers.

TIME SAVER

The system, which applies only to third class mail, was designed as a time saver for businesses which advertise by mail and also for postal workers who sort it.

The experiment is expected to show how much money has been saved, if any, and how much the post office's third class mail business has been increased.

The official said third class mail has been going up by about one billion pieces annually in the last five years. This averages out about 20 more pieces per family, he explained.

SCRAPPING ASKED

Chairman Carlson (R-Kan.) of the Senate Post Office Committee recently recommended that Postmaster General Summerfield scrap the "junk mail" order. Carlson promised strong support for such action.

Former Code Clerk Used Secrets of U.S. Harmfully

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Dec. 22 (AP)—Joseph S. Petersen Jr., former $7,700-a-year code clerk in the hush-hush National Security Agency, pleaded guilty today to using government secrets "in a manner prejudicial to the safety and interests of the United States."

The charge was one of three in an espionage indictment which a federal grand jury returned against the quiet-spoken, 40-year-old defendant on Oct. 20. Petersen previously had pleaded innocent to all three counts.

2 MORE COUNTS

Petersen faces a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine on the count to which he pleaded guilty.

Federal Judge Albert Bryant said he would sentence Petersen on Jan. 4, the date originally set for his trial. The judge also deferred until then disposal of the two remaining counts against him.

A bill of particulars filed with the court by government prosecutors accused Petersen of removing secret documents from government files and storing them in his apartment. It said he copied some of them.

CODE BROKEN

It also accused him of passing the information to a foreign country, identified as The Netherlands by Petersen's lawyer. One document he was said to have copied disclosed that the U.S. had broken the Dutch government's secret code.

The Dutch government has acknowledged receiving information through Petersen, but has said it understood he was authorized to send it. The U.S. has emphasized there is "no reason to question the good faith" of the Dutch.

The former scientist and research analyst, who was fired Oct. 1, is free on $10,000 bond.

The count on which Petersen pleaded guilty accused him of taking information from government files and using it "in a manner prejudicial to the safety and interests of the United States."

6 Little Greeks Can Fly to Yule With Dad

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—Uncle Sam played Santa Claus today, and Mike Katsenevas, a Greek-born janitor, may get his holiday wish of Christmas with his nine children.

Katsenevas and three of his children live in Ogden, Utah. The way has now been cleared for the other six to fly from Greece in time to join them on Christmas.

There will be one disappointment. His wife, Maria, is ill in Greece and cannot enter the United States for another 30 days.

PASSPORTS ARRANGED

It took a lot of doing to grant Katsenevas his Christmas wish, but his fellow workers, Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (R-Utah), the State Department, and Trans-

World Airlines teamed up to make it possible.

The State Department, after a flurry of transatlantic telephoning, notified Watkins today that the U.S. visa officer in Athens will issue American passports tomorrow to the six Katsenevas children.

TWA is holding seats for the children on a flight from Athens. The plane is scheduled to arrive in New York Christmas morning. If the children take the plane,

RED STRONG MAN

Baldy's cartoon depicts the results of Molotov's strong-arm methods to stop a West European Alliance. The drawing is on Page 4.

Watkins said they probably can join their father in Salt Lake City Christmas day for their first reunion in about seven years.

MUST DECIDE

The children, ranging in age from 8 to 17, must decide for themselves whether to stay with their mother or cross the ocean unaccompanied, to join their father.

Katsenevas is an American citizen, having won his papers by serving with the U.S. armed forces. He was able to bring only three of the children here on his return from his last visit to Greece in 1947.

Fellow workers at the Clearfield, Utah, naval supply depot, where Katsenevas has worked for about five years, decided to do it for him as a Christmas present. They raised the money for plane fares, but then ran into red tape. They appealed to Watkins who turned to the State Department and TWA.

Mayor Expected To Sign New Zoning Ordinance

Mayor Hartsfield will sign new zoning ordinances and land use maps into law Thursday, but late Wednesday urged that permits for subdivision developments in the controversial area be denied until new hearings are concluded.

Observers said Hartsfield will sign the proposals, passed Monday by the aldermanic board. They made the prediction after Hartsfield wrote letters to Building Inspector William R. Wofford, Planning Engineer Wyont Bean, and Construction Chief Clark Donaldson, saying promises for new hearings have been made to citizens in the area at Peachtree Battle avenue, West Wesley road and other areas.

"I am asking that you hold up any applications for subdivisions or new homes in the northwest section land areas changed by the new ordinance for a few weeks or until we can give these people a hearing," Hartsfield's letter concluded. A copy also was sent to Ald. Hamilton Douglas, chairman of the Aldermanic Board's zoning committee.

Residents in the area have insisted that R-1 restrictions be established, but the aldermen adopted a recommendation from Douglas' committee and voted to set R-2 and R-3 zoning for certain sections.

Homes Moved From Expressway Path

By MARJORY SMITH

The City of Atlanta is abandoning portions of Gilmer and Moore streets in the operation. About half the apartment houses being moved contain 12 units; the other are eight-unit dwellings.

Shirley Ann Battle, 5, and her 4-year-old brother had a ringside seat Wednesday for Atlanta's biggest moving operation.

The Negro youngsters sat on the front porch of their Grady Homes apartment at 165 Gilmer St., SE, as Shirley Ann reported: "They're moving our house today—with us right in it!"

Christmas wreaths on the window of the Battle apartment barely quivered as the 16-unit dwelling was eased a distance of 50 feet on huge rollers. The apartment house in which the Battles live is the first of 17 apartment dwellings which will be moved out of the path of the forthcoming downtown connector of the Atlanta expressway.

Complete moving operations will take more than a year and cost some $34,000 for each of the 17 dwellings, plus cost of grading and relocation of utility lines, according to City Engineer Garland Steele.

A joint arrangement between the City of Atlanta and the Atlanta Housing Authority made the huge moving project possible.

The city bought land necessary for expressway connector rights-of-way and the relocations.

Dwellings in the Negro housing project will be moved varying distances. The apartment being relocated Wednesday will be in its new area across the street Thursday, about 160 feet away. Another dwelling will be moved as far as 600 feet.

More than 100 families living in the low cost federal housing project will be affected by the relocation plans.

Most are taking the unusual operations going on around them calmly. The Battle youngsters' mother admitted, "The noise bothered us at first."

Boys and girls in the project enjoy their role as sidewalk superintendents.

Moving operations are being performed by the Atlanta firm of Edgar and Walter Sullivan, the fourth largest construction moving concern in the nation.

Steele said relocation will save

Charges Boss With Swindle On Paycheck

A construction worker who was brought into court on a warrant charging him with passing worthless salary checks Wednesday took out a cheating-and-swindling warrant against his employer.

The warrant was issued in Fulton Civil Court against Jack L. Rosenbaum, of Allied Construction Co., 287 Elizabeth St., NE. It was taken out by T. M. Fortner of 405 Atwood St., SE, an employee of the firm.

Fortner had been brought into court for a commitment hearing on a warrant which charged him with passing the checks at Harris Supermarket, 465 Holderess St., SW.

J. Eugene Harris, a partner in the grocery firm, testified the checks were returned by a bank because of insufficient funds.

Fortner said Rosenbaum gave him the checks as his salary.

The hearing on the charge against Fortner was continued until the charge against Rosenbaum comes up for a hearing.

Capitol Astir in Firing Of Russia-Born Attache

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution
WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—The Department of Agriculture announced today that Wolf Ladejinsky failed to meet "security requirements" to continue as agricultural attache in Tokyo.

It gave as another reason for removing the Russian-born expert on Far Eastern agriculture the belief of the department that "persons close to American farming operations" are best suited for the attache jobs.

There was sharp reaction to the department's decision. Ladejinsky said he will fight to keep his job and branded as "utterly false and thoroughly unsubstantiated" the department's statements in denying him security clearance.

At the State Department, which cleared Ladejinsky last April, officials were disturbed. It was understood the grounds cited by the Agriculture Department were not new and that the State Department had cleared Ladejinsky despite the material.

"UNWARRANTED" Further, there was a general feeling at the State Department that the Agriculture Department's action in disclosing the material from a confidential State Department file was unwarranted.

Rep. Walter A. Judd (R-Minn.) and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) lashed out at the Agriculture Department and Secretary Ezra Taft Benson.

Judd, who first protested, charged the department acted without confronting Ladejinsky directly with the charges against him. It acted, he said, without a careful examination of Ladejinsky's "consistently anti-Communist writings over a period of almost 20 years and his outstanding record."

SEN. HUMPHREY Sen. Humphrey said Benson and the department "conjured up a mighty flimsy framework of excuses for what I call unwarranted action." He added that the case appears to indicate that top jobs in the department are "now going to be opened up to persons of more obvious political persuasion."

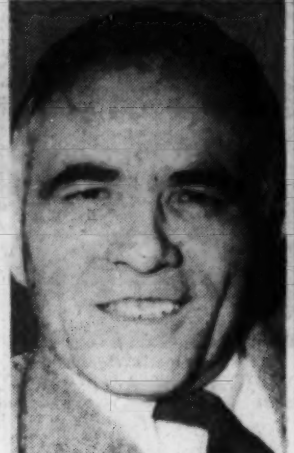

The Agriculture Department broke its silence on the case of Ladejinsky, who was a key figure in shaping the postwar Japanese land reform program, after several days of high-level conferences in the department. It came as protests continued to be heard that removal of Ladejinsky had damaged American prestige in the Far East.

In its statement, the department said that "the fact that Mr. Ladejinsky has sisters living in the USSR, through whom he may be subject to coercion, is in itself sufficient to deny the necessary clearance as agricultural attache." The statement continued:

"According to testimony of former Communists, to have been employed in any capacity by Amtorg Trading Corp. required clearance from the Communist Party. Mr. Ladejinsky was employed as an economist, investigator and assistant to the chief of the Bureau of Transportation of the Soviet Railroad, later known as Amtorg Trading Corp., during 1930-31. This was after he left the U.S.S.R., at the age of 23, because he professed dislike of the Communist system."

"RAISED QUESTIONS" The department also cited activities which, it said, "raise questions which preclude" the Agriculture department from granting clearance to the job "which would make available to him the most highly classified documents of the U.S. government." These activities were listed as follows:

"Mr. Ladejinsky having his father and sisters in the U.S.S.R. at the time he was building an anti-Communist reputation in the United States through magazine articles, his trip to the U.S.S.R. in 1939 as a tourist after he had published articles criticizing Russian farming methods, his membership in two Communist front organizations as well as information contained in classified reports. . . .

Ladejinsky became a naturalized citizen in 1928. He was a Far Eastern specialist with the department from 1935 to 1950 when he became an agricultural attache with the State department and stayed in Japan as headquarters for his Far Eastern work which covered India, Burma and other countries.

CLOSE TO MACARTHUR

During the occupation of Japan, he was regarded as having a close relationship with Gen. Douglas MacArthur. He has been commended by the Japanese government for his role in breaking up large Japanese landed estates and gaining land ownership for small farmers for the first time.

As he prepared to return last week, he was told by Agriculture Department officials he would not be retained under the new law, adopted by the last session of Congress, that transfers the attaches to the Agriculture Department from the State Department.

Ladejinsky ticked off the department's statement as follows: He worked for Amtorg as an "interpreter only" and "never heard" of the need for clearance from the Communist Party.

"It is simply not true," he said, "that I belonged to Communist front organizations."

He has not communicated with nor heard from his three sisters in Russia in the last seven or eight years, he said, and his father has since died.

GEORGIA NEWS

Flue-Cured Tobacco Acreages Cut 5 Pct.

Georgia growers of flue-cured tobacco will find their acreage allotments for next year cut on an average of some 5 per cent.

The county allotments, which were released Wednesday, do not reflect the full individual slashes.

They average about 4½ per cent below this year's figures, leaving the difference for later adjustments among individual growers.

In addition to flue-cured allotments in 68 counties, burley growers in 16 north Georgia counties were assigned acreage quotas totaling 110.7 acres.

Shade-grown cigar wrapper tobacco in southwest Georgia is not subject to controls. Neither is the aromatic Turkish type which farmers in the northerly counties of Walton, Elbert and a few others are beginning to grow.

The 1955 total Georgia acreage for south Georgia's flue-cured is 101,882.6 acres, compared with this year's 106,830. Colquitt maintains its leadership among the counties with 7,594.9 acres. Next came Coffee with 6,122.1 acres; Lowndes, 5,539.6; Berrien, 5,508.8; and Bulloch, 4,912.7.

The purpose of the allotments is to adjust production to expected demand, avoid market congestion and price slumps.

Georgia Pilot Crash Lands, Catches Bus

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22 (AP)—A homeward-bound Georgia pilot, looking in the wrong neck of the woods for Chattanooga, landed his light plane upside down in a Knox County field just before dark—and took a bus for Columbus, Ga.

Walter L. Miller, 45, pilot and owner of the two-place, single-engine plane, walked away unharmed. He explained that he became lost near Smithville, Tenn., and was looking for landmarks to take him to Chattanooga and thence to Columbus.

"The last landmark I recognized was the big lake near Smithville," he said. "I knew I was off course at the time so I banked sharply to the left to correct my course to Chattanooga. . ."

Landing in an empty field near here, Miller's plane nosed over when it hit a fence.

Jealous Suitor Releases Girl After Gun Terror

crowd gathered outside despite freezing weather.

Shortly before he surrendered, Timberlake released Miss Davis briefly so she could go to a rest room. But he guaranteed her return by holding Dr. George Corbin Jr. temporary hostage, threatening him with death if she did not come back. Miss Davis went back to her prison.

Doctors, friends and relatives finally persuaded him to give up the pistol and come out. He was promised medical treatment and told he would not have to go to jail.

A doctor who talked to Timberlake said he had wanted to surrender since early this morning but "apparently was afraid of going to jail."

Timberlake, in a fit of jealousy, grabbed five-foot, two-inch Miss Davis, a former Wac, and pushed her into the pack room shortly before the lunch hour yesterday. He waved a pistol and ordered other employees out.

Miss Davis was quoted as saying she thought Timberlake was joking and did not realize he was serious until she saw the gun.

Timberlake had dated Miss Davis regularly until a few months ago. She broke off the romance because Timberlake had been drinking heavily.

Timberlake was arrested earlier this month on suspicion of mental derangement after he went to Miss Davis' home and threatened her with a gun. He was released from jail Monday and he returned to his job at the mill.

Miss Davis' sister, Petronia, said Timberlake was jealous of the attentions by a Ft. Bragg soldier to Miss Davis. But she said her sister had seen the soldier only "one or two times."

"He kept saying all night he loved her and would let her go if the soldier would take her place," Deputy C. L. Holmes said. Timberlake called out that he wanted to kill the soldier. The soldier was not identified.

During the night he allowed her to take a nap, but stayed awake himself.

'I Know You'uns Answer to Prayer'

"Lost?" said Mrs. Mills. "Mercy! Is your father lost too?" "We don't know," faltered Sandra, suddenly thinking of her father who might be wandering through the dark woods looking for them. "We left him at the cabin." She looked anxiously at Michael. She didn't want to tell this nice, welcoming woman they had run away.

"Then you're all right," said Mrs. Mills, relieved. "He'll find you. I don't know where that cabin you're talking about is. We seldom get over your mountain. But you're just stay put and your folks'll find you." She laughed. "Like I tell my chaps, a lost barn is a heap easier to find than a lost calf. Barns rare back in a clearing and stay still but calves git the go-yonders!"

Her tone was so merry Michael and Sandra laughed in spite of their weariness and their hunger.

MAKE LIKE BARN

"We'll make like a barn," offered Michael sturdily.

"Yes, do that!" said Mrs. Mills. And then in a more serious tone she beckoned them closer to her chair. "I'm sitting here praying the Lord would send the young'uns something fine and special for Christmas," she whispered. "I know you'uns come a purpose in answer to that prayer. I couldn't be prouder to see anybody!"

Sandra and Michael looked at each other uncomfortably.

"We haven't got any presents," Sandra said, apologetically.

"Presents!" cried Mrs. Mills. "Lord love you, we don't want presents. You brought yourselves! And hit Christmas Eve. After you've et and rested we'll have ourselves a Christmas party!"

TENDER AND GREEN

The leather britches, tender green beans which were snapped and threaded on strings and hung in the rafters to dry until they were pale gold, had been boiled with bacon rinds and a pod or two of red pepper and they tasted of sun and summertime. The crackling bread had been cooked in a pone so it was crisp outside but rich and moist with bits of lean pork inside. The milk, foaming and warm from the cow, Fancy Lee, tasted so good Michael and Sandra could scarcely believe it was the same stuff they had poured in the guppy tank.

They ate and as they ate the young Mills stood watching them happily.

"When you'uns done eating," said Pete, "reckon you'll feel like coming out to the barn and help us with our surprise?"

Michael and Sandra answered the question in one breath.

"Sure!" they said.

(To Be Continued)

Timberlake allowed Dr. Corbin to come in the room and administer a sedative to the girl. Timberlake refused anything.

Police outside the sliding door could see the girl sitting on the floor. Timberlake crouched behind a stack of packing boxes and peeped through the cracks.

Officers decided against using tear gas, fearing that Timberlake would shoot before the gas took effect.

Finally, shortly before 11 a.m., Timberlake promised to release the girl if a doctor came to the room. He complained of being very sick.

Won't Beg Chou for Anything At Peiping, Hammaraskjold Vows

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Dec. 22—U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said today that he is not going to Peiping to "beg anybody for anything" and that the question of the prisoners held by Communist China will be "the item on the agenda."

Hammarskjold, who returned this afternoon from Stockholm, told a press conference that he had not had time to go over the plans prepared by his staff during his absence.

These call for conferences en route with British Foreign Secretary Eden, and India's Premier Nehru, and his arrival in Peiping the first week in January.

"VERY HAPPY"

However, Hammarskjold said, "If I pass through New Delhi I certainly will be very happy to see Mr. Nehru." Soon after his arrival today Hammarskjold had talks with Sir Pierson Dixon and Arthur S. Lall, permanent representatives at the United Nations of Britain and India.

Hammarskjold indicated that he will leave New York about the middle of next week and that he does not plan to stay in Peiping more than a week or 10 days.

Hammarskjold had originally proposed arriving in Peiping after Dec. 26, and he explained today that the delay was not caused by Communist China. In addition to the necessity of choosing his assistants and conferring with delegates before he leaves, the delay results from the fact that Nehru is not expected to return to New Delhi from a conference in Indonesia until Dec. 31 or Jan. 1.

Hammarskjold said he plans to take with him a staff of five or six persons. These, he said, will include a political adviser, a legal adviser, one or more interpreters, and a public relations officer.

Hammarskjold declined at the start to give any information about his staff or the subjects he plans to discuss, and said he had never seen Chou even at a distance. He emphasized that today he would be "more guarded, more restrained than usual" because he wanted to avoid any development that would diminish the chances for success what he called, "this very serious, in some respects a tragic matter."

"KNEEL BEFORE CHOU"

However, he reacted strongly when a Greek correspondent suggested that as secretary-general he was going to Peiping to "kneel before Chou" to ask the release of the prisoners and that this would be a "humiliation" for the United Nations.

Hammarskjold replied firmly, "I am not going anywhere to beg anybody for anything."

Asked if he expected to talk to Chou about the admission of Chinese Communist representatives to the U.N., Hammarskjold said, "You know very well what is the item on the agenda established by the General Assembly."

Under the assembly resolution, adopted Dec. 10, Hammarskjold was asked to use whatever means he considered appropriate to obtain the release of all persons who fought on the U.N. side in Korea and are held captive in violation of the armistice.

The warrant was taken out by E. M. Beaton of the State Labor Department.

The boy, Billy Jimmy Young of Rt. 3, Lithonia, was fatally injured Monday afternoon when a concrete slab crushed his chest as he worked in a five-foot ditch at

Jail Term Threatened Under Fair Trade Law

An Atlanta furniture dealer was ordered to jail for five days Wednesday for contempt of court unless he complies with a restraining order issued under the state's Fair Trade Law.

Attorneys said it was the first time a Georgian had been ordered jailed for violating a restraining order issued under that law.

Fulton Superior Court Judge E. E. Andrews ruled that Anthony N. Demos of Demos Furniture Co., 70 Forsyth St., SW, had violated a previous injunction restraining him from selling name-brand merchandise at cut-rate prices while it still bore a company trademark.

The contempt ruling grew out of a petition brought by General Electric Co. under provisions of the new act.

The electrical firm contended that the furniture company had continued to sell GE products at cut-rate prices while they still bore GE trademarks, in spite of an injunction issued against that practice in August.

Demos was given five days in which to "purge himself of contempt" after he argued that the products were sold without the trademarks removed against his orders.

GE attorneys contended that although GE labels were removed from some boxes containing their merchandise, the articles inside still bore GE trademarks.

The violations were based on sale of a GE electric toaster for $15.91, on which the company had set a Fair Trade retail price of $21.95.

NEW LEGISLATORS

Schley Solon B. E. Pelham Was Teacher

Another in a series on "freshman" legislators going to the General Assembly Jan. 10.

A man who has taught school and served on the school board will represent Schley County in the Georgia House of Representatives in January.

B. E. Pelham, who has taken a leading part in the affairs of Ellaville and Schley County since moving there from Florida in 1937, was elected to the House.

He has served three years on the Ellaville City Council. He is a member of the Schley County Board of Education, Ellaville Baptist Church, Elks Club, Lions Club, Masons and Shrine.

Born in Graceville, Fla., Nov. 30, 1904, Pelham moved to Panama City, Fla., in 1912. He attended public schools there, and then attended the University of Florida. He taught school at Panama City and Bay County for four years. Following that, he traveled for Corn Products and then for Poland Soap Works. When he joined International Paper Co. as a pulpwood dealer he was transferred to Ellaville. Mr. and Mrs. Pelham have a 12-year-old daughter, Donna Lynn.

Fulton Tower Fears No Yule Congestion

Prisoner population at Fulton Tower has been reduced enough to avert any overcrowding during the holidays, Sheriff T. R. Grimes said Wednesday.

The sheriff said that if the number of prisoners is kept down to its present level of 378, "we can take care of our prisoners over the holidays."

Grimes also announced that additional prisoners who have been sentenced to state penal institutions would be moved out this week.

Through cooperation of the State Department of Corrections, the sheriff said, total jail population also has been reduced from 517 in October to the 378 total. This figure includes 108 prisoners under sentence.

In efforts to avoid threatened overcrowding at the jail, the county has supplied transportation to move prisoners to Georgia State Prison at Reidsville. The sheriff previously had warned that with courts closed over the holidays, the jail would become overcrowded unless prisoners already sentenced were moved out.

Writ Bars Picketing By Bricklayers Union

The AFL Bricklayers Union No. 8 has been restrained from picketing a dormitory construction project on the Emory University campus.

A court order obtained by Carmichael Tile Co. enjoins the union, pending a Jan. 7 hearing. The tile company contends the union's business manager, R. O. Nalley, exceeded his authority in placing a picket on the project.

Missed Chair by Hour, Could Be Paroled in Dec. 1956

Wayne Woodruff, once within an hour of electrocution for an Oklawaha Swamp cabin slaying, will be eligible for a parole in December, 1956, members of the Georgia Pardon and Parole Board said Wednesday.

At that time, they explained, he will have served seven years of a life sentence the board granted him in 1949 after numerous stays of a death sentence.

Board members said Mrs. Teleatha Murphy, a friend of Bedford, Ill., appeared to urge them to extend further clemency. She was informed, they announced, that under their rules a lifer must serve a minimum of seven years.

Woodruff, now 34, formerly lived in Bedford and later at Jacksonville, Fla. He was convicted at Folkston, Ga., on Oct. 10, 1947, of murdering Myron D. Sutherland, a Jacksonville amateur sportsman, while they were on a hunting trip.

He declared the shooting was accidental.

RECORD REVIEW

'Six Centuries Of Song' Sung By Roland Hayes

SIX CENTURIES OF SONG sung by Roland Hayes, tenor. (Vanguard).

These two LPs contain 17 lieder and 17 spirituals by this distinguished Georgian and one's first reaction is amazement at the way this great singer's voice holds up. Almost 10 years ago this listener experienced similar amazement as he heard Mr. Hayes pour out the beauty of his voice before a packed Carnegie Hall. No singer, with the possible exception of Lauri-Volpi, has carried on so magnificently. The top of his voice no longer serves Mr. Hayes as it once did but the ineffable beauty of his tone and his genius for communication with an audience are still there. Mr. Hayes is probably the greatest vocal artist that this state has produced and all Georgians who love music will be interested in this album. The reproduction of his voice is remarkably lifelike.—T. M.

Works by ROSSINI, GALUPPI, TARTINI and MARCELLO performed by I Musici. (Angel).

Works by CORELLI, VIVALDI, and CLEMENTI performed by Virtuosi di Roma, conducted by Renato Fasano. (RCA-Victor-HMV).

One needs only to listen to these two records to realize how much truly fine music for small orchestras has been written—and largely neglected. I Musici has 12 members (no conductor) and has been described by Toscanini as a "perfect chamber orchestra." Virtuosi di Roma has 17 members and it, too, is deserving of high compliments.—T. M.

DEBUSSY'S "Afternoon of a Faun," and "Nocturnes: Clouds and Festival" performed by Orchestral Society of Boston, conducted by Willis Page. (Cook).

The "Nocturnes" and "Faun" have been recorded many times and here are fluent readings, superbly recorded. One wonders if Cook, who usually records things on the loud side, decided on Debussy as a change of pace. This is the only 10-inch LP coupling "Faun" and "Nocturnes."—T. M.

U.S. Jobs Abroad To Come Under Civil Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Civil Service Commission today approved plans to extend the competitive civil service system to some 35,000 government jobs held abroad by U.S. workers.

Chairman Philip Young also told a news conference another 7,000 overseas jobs in the Panama Canal Zone, 1,500 on the Alaska Railroad, and 1,500 in foreign countries for non-defense agencies are to be converted later to competitive service.

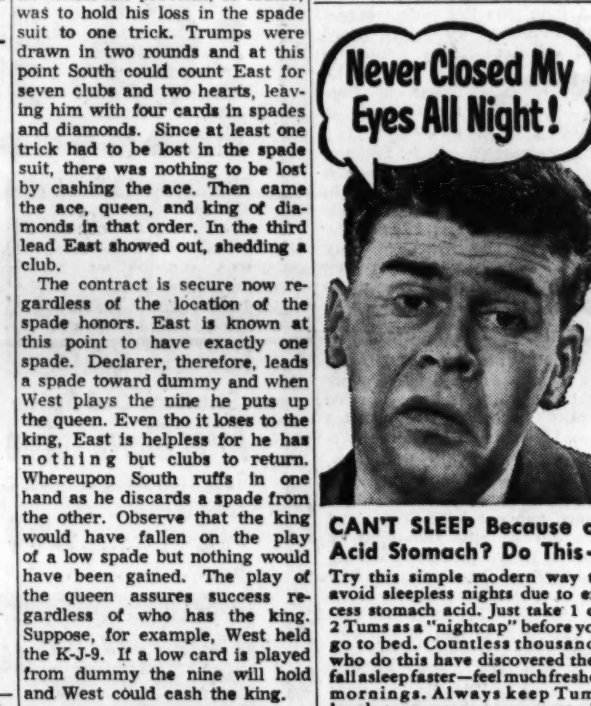

Present jobholders who can meet qualification requirements yet to be established will be given civil service status. Future vacancies will be filled through competitive testing.

The great bulk of the overseas positions embraced by the new plan are in the Defense, Interior and Commerce Departments. Young said it will leave only about 19,000 overseas jobs outside civil service.

A Fortune Teller Periled Love Affair

Julian D., 29, is employed in a commission house and has a good position.

"I have a sweetheart named Rhea," he introduced his problem, "and we have been very much in love. All went well for the first few months. Then she began to accuse me of being overly attentive to my stenographer at the office."

"It so happens that I am not even remotely interested in my stenographer except that I recognize her ability as an efficient business woman, Rhea accuses me of having dates with this girl, however, and makes all sorts of false charges."

"Finally, I learned that Rhea is a fortune teller fan. Once every week she spends a dollar to have her fortune told. It was the fortune teller who assured her that I was very interested in a blonde."

"The only blonde near me is my stenographer, however, so Rhea is sure I am unfaithful. Dr. Crane, what can be done in a case like this?"

DIAGNOSIS

Belief in fortune tellers is not at all unusual even in this supposedly enlightened age. I am told of a certain man here in Chicago who used to pay $1,000 a month to a clever fortune teller for advice regarding the stock market.

The modern fortune teller takes the place of the witch doctor in primitive days. He, or more frequently she, relieves the client of the effort involved in thinking out solutions for his problems. Apparently it is much easier for many people to follow orders issued by another than to do their own thinking.

If all fortune tellers simply took on the role of a parental adviser and gave sound advice, inspiring their clients to good work and faith in their mates, psychologists would have little fault to find with them, even though we know that fortune telling is unsound and without any mysterious powers.

DANGEROUS

But many fortune tellers are uneducated persons whose primary interest is the dollar. They often instill doubt and jealousy instead of faith and courage.

Such persons are dangerous to the community. Because so many people place absolute trust in what the fortune tellers say, a great deal of harm can thus be done in society. I know of wills that have been changed and homes that have been wrecked because of consulting fortune tellers.

If people cannot do their own thinking, let them go to the minister or priest, or their physician or lawyer or a psychologist and obtain sound, wholesome and scientific aid without hocus pocus and attempts at impressive mysticism.

One of the reasons your newspaper is sponsoring this feature with its free consultation by mail, is to discourage dangerous consultations with charlatans and quacks.

Good sense should enable any one of you to predict that a person with ambition and perseverance would get promotions, money and sweethearts. With a little practice a smart person can easily beat the average fortune teller.

Servicemen Arrive From Far East Area

SEATTLE, Dec. 22 (AP)—The Navy transport Gen. M. M. Patrick arrived last night with 1,142 passengers from the Far East and a "home by Christmas" air of expectancy. Most of the 627 Army men aboard were started homeward by air during the night.

It was the second ship arrival of the day. The Gen. H. B. Freeman arrived earlier with 1,000 passengers.

"Long-distance telephone calls, considered a novelty not too many years ago, have become routine matters in the lives of millions of Americans."—Article quote.

If most of us could have a choice . . . of music we prefer to hear . . . no doubt we'd say, "It is the voice . . . of some one who, to us, is dear" . . . the old familiar sounds we've known . . . the laughter of a child at play . . . or children on the telephone . . . a thousand miles, or more, away.

Sometimes when old folks are alone . . . and everything seems much too still . . . there comes a call upon the phone . . . that runs up that long-distance bill . . . and mama, who expects the worst . . . and thinks the call may mean bad news . . . always gets there to answer first . . . while papa's looking for his shoes.

But, usually, there's nothing wrong . . . they just called up to tell you that . . . they haven't written in so long . . . they want to have a little chat . . . and it is nice of them to show . . . their loving parents such respect . . . but I found out, some time ago . . . they always place the calls "collect."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VANDELLEN

Your Heart Beats 100,000 Times a Day

The heart begins to beat long before birth and continues as long as life persists. When it stops, death occurs. In this respect, life depends upon the function of this structure.

The heart is no mystery to the medical profession, as its muscle is much easier to study and examine than is the brain or liver. The organ, beginning as a hollow tube, becomes a four-chambered pump.

By alternately contracting and relaxing, it sends blood through 12,000 miles of arteries, veins and capillaries. In this way, nourishment and oxygen are distributed to every cell of the body.

The heart beats on an average 100,000 times a day and gives 37 million contractions a year. The ticker of a 50-year-old has made 2 billion contractions and has pumped approximately 180,000 tons of blood.

An engineer has estimated that this is equivalent to the output of a motor that has been driven a million miles. In this respect, the heart is tough and not half the weakling many believe it to be.

When does the heart muscle rest? Between each contraction. Since this interval is longer than the time required to contract, the organ usually rests twice as much as it works.

On the other hand, exercise or emotional stress speeds up the rate at the expense of the rest period. When this takes place, the structure works twice as much as it rests.

How is the beat initiated? The initial impulse comes from a nerve center, called the pacemaker, located high in the wall of the right auricle. This node is like a timer, sending out rhythmic electrical impulses that fan out like the splines created by dropping a pebble into still water.

The node has connections with the regular nervous system but can act on its own if necessary. The impulses carry an electrical charge that is easy to detect with the electrocardiogram.

Irregularities of the beat often result from disturbances of this delicate mechanism. Infection and various drugs, such as caffeine and nicotine, affect this unique electrical system. Some irregularities are remedied easily; others are made harmless by slowing the pulse.

This explains why the heart flutters when too much coffee, tea, or tobacco is used. Disturbances of rhythm also occur during rheumatic fever.

there told her they were "federal men," she said.
"After I invited them in and called my husband into the room, one pulled a sawed-off shotgun from under his coat and the other drew a pistol," Mrs. Williams said.
Once inside, the two forced Williams, his wife and Sgt. Alex Smith to sit in chairs. They bound their hands and feet with adhesive tape and then began a systematic search of the house. They took $1,100 from Williams' wallet and stripped a $2,000 ring from his finger.

Williams, who came to the Atlanta Police Department to view photographs of known holdup men in an effort to identify the gunmen, was quoted by Atlanta officers as saying the two over-looked a much larger sum of money hidden in the home.
The Williams home was burglarized in March, 1946, while the family was away on vacation, and $12,000 was stolen along with a large quantity of home-cured

Final Zoning, Land Use 'Mop-Up' Meeting Is Set

By HERMAN HANCOCK

The Municipal Planning Board Wednesday scheduled a final meeting for Thursday, Dec. 30, with J. M. Stevens, resident engineer for Harland Bartholomew & Associates, to attempt to iron out unfinished items in connection with new zoning ordinances and land use maps.

The new measures have been adopted by the city, but final action has not been taken by Fulton County Commissioners to enact provisions to unincorporated areas similar to those for Atlanta.

The Bartholomew firm made original studies and recommendations for standard laws for both the city and unincorporated parts of Fulton County.

Among matters yet to be discussed are: recommendations for staffing the enlarged city planning office; zoning to control heights of structures allowed in the airport area; definite provisions under which zoning could be approved with certain administrative directions to prevent injury to adjoining properties, and new and definite regulations governing development of subdivisions.

Sam R. Young, vice chairman of the board, and president of the Georgia Railroad, will entertain the board at a dinner beginning at 6:30 p.m. in his private railroad car. After the dinner the board will meet at the city hall for a "mopping up" session.

The board Wednesday approved

Gay, Festive Boxes Greet Holiday Mail

By ANNIE LOU HARDY

Mail boxes have gone festive and gay for Christmas in the new section of Argonne drive between Arden and Moore's Mill roads.

All the trim, modern homes sit some 40 or 50 feet from the street with velvety lawns sloping down to the curb. In front of each house is a rural type mail box. The boxes are all dressed up as the result of a community project instigated by the Argonne Forresterers.

The Forresterers is an organization of the residents of the block who have as their purpose the improvement and beautification of their neighborhood.

SANTA, SLEIGH

Santa Claus and his gift-filled sleigh tops one mail box, while another is garlanded with fragrant cedar and is hung with an old-fashioned oil lantern. Another goes all-out in gay red and white stripes and a cascade of silvered fringe.

There are huge red bows, sparkling Christmas balls, silver tinsel, candy canes and Christmas bells. And of course there is holly and mistletoe in abundance.

Mistletoe Ball Fetes Sub-Debs

Three hundred members of the sub-deb set dined and danced at the East Lake Country Club Wednesday evening when the Christmas Belles entertained at a Mistletoe Ball to inaugurate the Christmas festivities for the group.

The Christmas Belles include 50 members of the junior classes at Northside High and Westminster Schools. They have no officers and no purpose except to have a good time. Each girl invited three guests and one couple as her guests for the ball.

Miniature trees fashioned of mistletoe and strung with silver bells in graduated sizes formed the novel decorations for the tables where dinner was served. Tall green tapers rising from masses of boxwood completed the arrangements. Clusters of small glittering bells served as favors for the girls, and for the boys there were sprays of mistletoe for their laips.

But what a good time the neighbors had in their decorating orgy! Everything had to be finished by Sunday afternoon—the deadline—so all day long mothers, fathers, children and dogs tripped gaily down to the mail boxes carrying this and that. In the late afternoon everyone visited everyone else to see the colorful results.

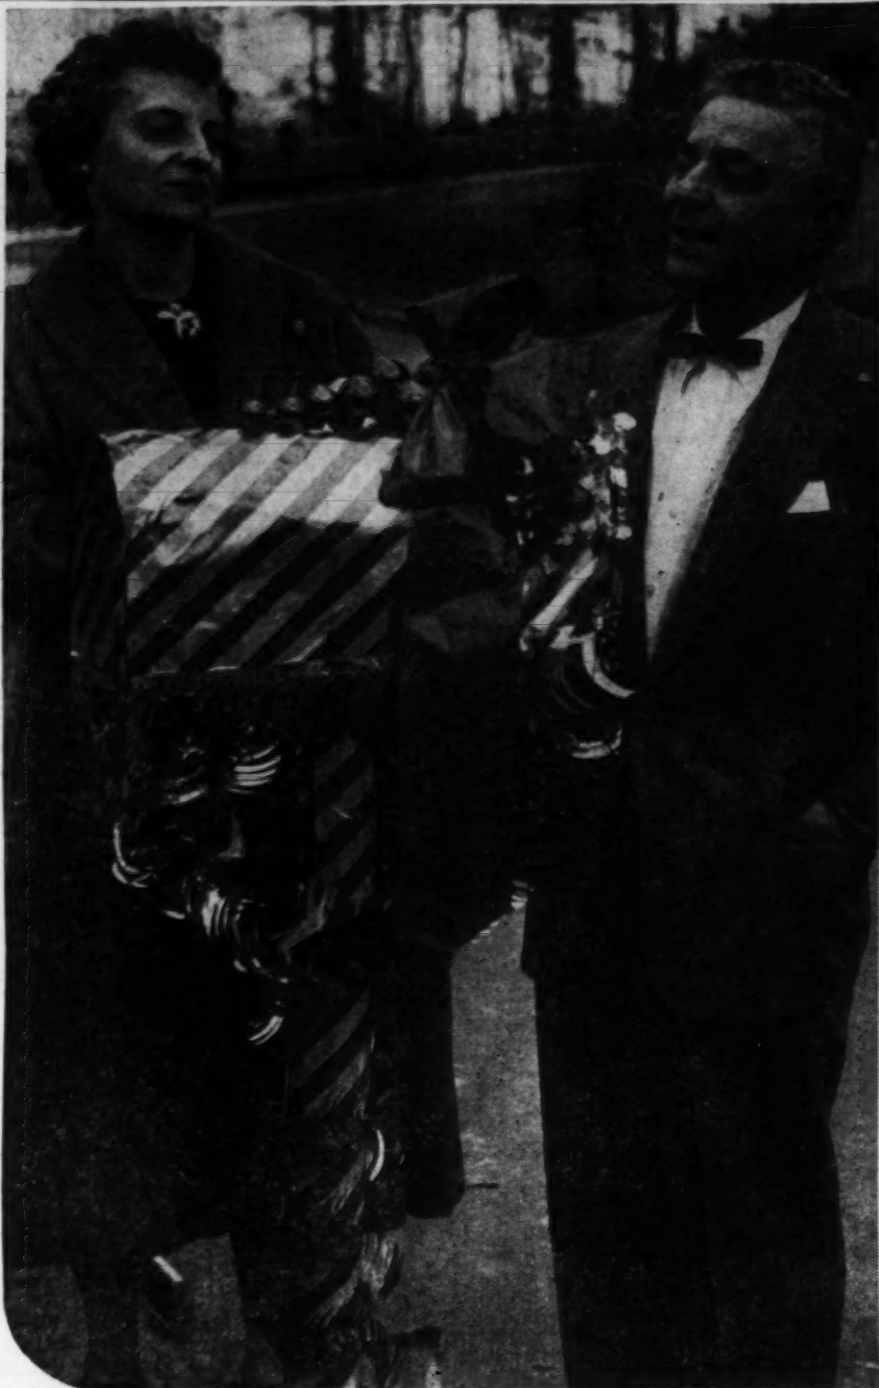

Leading the decorators was Mrs. M. Tom Lewis, president of the Forresterers, who was ably assisted by the other officers. They are Mrs. F. S. Whiteside, vice president; Mrs. Haygood Hill, secretary, and Mrs. Cecil Johnson, treasurer.

A pre-Christmas festivity for the Forresterers was a community dinner held at Mrs. Lewis' home, with each family contributing one dish to the elaborate menu. The dinner will become an annual custom, as will a Halloween party for all the children in the block.

POOL, TRICKS, TREATS
"Instead of our children tramping all over the neighborhood on Halloween night, we plan to pool our tricks and treats and give them a party," explained Mrs. Lewis.

Throughout the year the Forresterers hope to improve their neighborhood through the exchange of ideas, actual experiences, lectures, etc. They plan to put special emphasis on the cultivation of native flowers, trees and shrubs.

Their Christmas mail box project has been so much fun, it too will probably become an annual activity.

Students' Art Work On Exhibit

Representative work of children at different levels is spotlighted in the exhibition which opened Sunday at the High Museum.

The exhibit will be on display through Jan. 3.

Miss Katherine Comfort, supervisor of art of the Atlanta Public Schools, explains that the purpose of the exhibit is to point out quality of good design and to show relationship of materials, tools and process to the design.

"The exhibit introduces the other sensory values, in addition to the visual," Miss Comfort continues, "and emphasizes three dimensional designs. It also shows how 'common' or waste material can be shaped into 'uncommon' form through design."

Annie Lou Hardy Vienna Student Here for Christmas

Behind the Christmas visit here of pretty Traudi Hafel of Vienna, Austria, is the intriguing story of her acquaintance with her hosts, the Claude Grizzards Jr., through CARE packages sent by them to a war widow and her daughter.

That was back in 1949. A correspondence ensued, and when Mrs. Grizzard and her daughters, Pat (now Mrs. James O. Leak III of Providence, R.I.) and Martha, went to Europe in 1952 a meeting was arranged with Traudi and her mother in Innsbruck.

It was Mr. Grizzard who recommended Traudi for a Rotary Club scholarship if she would be interested in coming to school in the States. Not only interested, but enthusiastic, the Vienna lass was influenced by Pat, a Brenau student, to select Brenau as her school.

Last September the 18-year-old brunet arrived on the campus and enrolled for a course in English, French, speech and shorthand, for she aspires to be a private secretary. As her sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. Grizzard are responsible for all her holidays. Their Christmas gift to her will be a long-distance call to her mother in Vienna on Sunday.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT M. BRAY leave Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Sims Bray and their children, Mary, Sims Jr. and Lloyd, for Columbus, where they will spend the weekend with Mrs. Sims Bray's mother, Mrs. Lloyd Bowers. The Sims Bray family will remain for a week with Mrs. Bowers.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE WRIGHT of Tuscaloosa arrived Wednesday to spend Christmas with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Wellborn, on 15th street. Mrs. Wright is the former Stella Wellborn.

BIRMINGHAM VISITORS here for Christmas are Mrs. William E. Grabbe and her young daughters, May and Dorothy, who

Sewing Circle Racks Up Happy Yule

By MARY DENMARK

A rack loaded with bright dresses, tables piled high with gowns, baby aprons and undergarments—that's the way a small group of Atlanta churchwomen said "Merry Christmas" to 60 youngsters.

For more than 30 years the sewing circle at Central Presbyterian Church has made garments for the Baby Clinic sponsored by the church. At the annual Christmas parties the clothing is presented to children who attend the clinic.

At the recent party, in addition to festively wrapped gifts for each child attending, there were also plenty of crisp new garments that the mothers could pick out for their youngsters.

The circle, now numbering 10 members, meets once a month. Annual output from these meetings runs in the neighborhood of 48 dresses, 36 gowns, 36 winter gowns and 72 aprons for the very young crowd.

Mrs. Lamar H. Lindsay, a member of the sewing circle, said that the church does not contribute any funds to the work of the circle. Instead members themselves supply material for the clothing.

In addition, the women purchase underwear and bluejeans for the little boys at the clinic.

Social Club Fetes Students At Cook School

The Spurs Social Club at Henry Grady High yesterday held its annual Christmas party for 14 children at Cook School.

The party, held at the home of Miss Billie Ruth Bettess, included singing carols and playing games.

Each child received a gift stocking. Trucks were given to each of the boys. The girls received tea sets.

Celestine Sibley Tall Tales Of Animals

It's a pretty come-off when a full-grown woman sits down in the middle of all the pre-Christmas litter and starts reading about elephants and monkeys and performing dogs, talking horses and playful gorillas.

I had no intention of being trapped into reading anything except Christmas cards until the day after tomorrow—at the very least. And it's all Fred Bailey Thompson's fault that I gave way like this.

Mr. Thompson, you know, is the old circus press agent who retired to Clarkston, eschewing elephants and monkeys for raising fancy poultry, writing about the circus and visiting schools and hospitals and spinning tales for children.

He came by the other day and brought me a copy of a bright-jacketed little book called, "Animals Have Tales," which he and the Hale Publishing Co., of Hapeville just brought out. I set the book aside, thinking maybe I'd give it to one of the children for Christmas but with it so handy it was easy to dip into while I talked on the phone or waited for an idea to grab me by what Muv calls the nap of the neck and the seat of the britches.

As a result I haven't been able to close it. It's not so much Mr. Thompson's gripping style. He writes lush, adjective-rich prose of all circus press-agents, giving nary apology for utter unabandoned sentimentality. But the stories he has to tell are circus classics.

His love affair with Mom, the old elephant who offered him friendship and restored his confidence when he was a young press agent, suffering bruises to his ego, is a fine tale. Mom was such a smart elephant she knew arithmetic and such a cut-up she got the circus in trouble by stealing the lunchboxes of a crew of railroad workers and hiding them, unopened, in the hay. She had a gay bag of tricks which Mr. Thompson relates with humor and affection but her death in the great Hagenbeck & Wallace railroad wreck, which took the lives of 119 people and many animals, is very moving. Her trainer, Pat Murphy, was killed in the wreck but Mom couldn't accept that and she took him in her trunk and, although she was bleeding profusely herself, she didn't stop until she found a friend to care for her master.

"When we examined Pat we had to tell her it was too late," Mr. Thompson wrote. "Pat had gotten his final curtain call. Both Mom and I knew he had found a special tent up in circus heaven when he never again would have to worry about muddy lots."

Mr. Thompson has a chapter on "Yaarab," his first money friend, and one on "clowndom's greatest," including such famous clowns as Billy Burke, father of the stage and screen actress, Billie Burke, who was married to Flo Ziegfeld. He writes of Patrick (Frisky) O'Reilly and his daughter, Rose, both clowns. He has an especially satisfying little tale to tell of a stray mongrel dog and a cook tent bus boy who formed a partnership and became stars of the Big Top.

Children who have heard Fred Thompson's stories know the truth of the title of his book, "Animals Have Tales." But I still say it's a pretty come-off when a full-grown woman can't put down a book full of circus stories. Blame it on the Christmas season which makes children out of all of us—more or less.

The South Rises Again

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Dec. 22—Many years ago, while radio listeners sat home to hear Major Bowes' Amateur Hour, and while theater clients chuckled at Myrna Loy, William Powell and a dog called Asta, Champ Pickens went calling on his friend, the mayor of Montgomery.

How about joining up with him, suggested this career promoter, and putting on a football game between the North and South at the New York World's Fair? The mayor quickly got into step, but with one minor variation.

"Why New York?" he said, patriotically. "What's wrong with Montgomery, the cradle of the Confederacy? What would be a more appropriate battleground for football stars of our Northern and Southern colleges than Montgomery?"

Some 18 years and 15 games later, Champ Pickens still wonders if he didn't make a mistake, allowing himself to be talked into Montgomery as the scene of his Blue-Gray game.

"It hasn't been a money game," he said. "It started off in debt and hasn't paid its way out yet. The first year, my friend, the mayor, wrote a check for $5,000 in advance to cover any loss. It took $4,890 to pay our way out."

"We began to make a little money after the war and kept it up until three years ago. Expenses are eating up everything now. Everything's gone up. There once was a time when you could get a hotel room and feed a player for $4.89 a day. But now the players have got wives, and they all want to travel by air. Expenses have just gone out of sight."

Maybe it was the years that threw this wet blanket over the promotional fire that used to burn inside Champ Pickens, the man, they say, who actually produced Alabama's first Rose Bowl bid in 1924. He's deep in his seventies now, and as he told his story in Willie's Sports Headquarters he puffed on a burned-out stogie.

—Champ Took Charge at Halftime

He's a lonely widower who lives in a hotel room, and from sports event to sports event. His association with the Blue-Gray game is that of a paid director, though time has cut back his activities.

"We've got television for the first time this year," Champ said, "but we won't make a lot of money on that. In the first place, we've got to play on Christmas Day and you don't induce many people to come away from home on Christmas."

"About our television deal, we made it 15 years ago. I sold rights to the National Broadcasting Co. and they've been paying us $2,500 every year just for first rights to the game. Now television's here and we still get the same $2,500. They helped us at a time when we needed it, though, so there's nothing wrong with that. It looked like a good deal when it was made. You can't always see in advance."

The South just about owns this series—11 victories in 15 games—and some suspect that the Gray squad has been stacked now and then to make sure that the Confederacy wins at least one war from the Yankees. They tell the story of the year that Pickens became very unhappy with the offense employed by the Gray squad, which closed the first half two touchdowns behind. He is supposed to have invaded the dressing room at intermission and told the head coach in firm terms that he was to open up the attack and go to a throwing game.

His orders were followed: The Gray came back with three touchdowns and won another one for the South, after which Champ undoubtedly felt that coaches were unnecessary around there except for pacing the sidelines during the game and shaking hands after it's over.

—You Can Get Too Much of Bowls

If he did, he successfully subdued the emotion. This year the Blue-Gray has a distinguished Yankee staff of Don Faurot, Missouri's inventor of the split-T, Rip Engle of Penn State's eastern power and Duffy Daugherty, who inherited what Biggie Munn left of Michigan State. The South's is a young staff that consists of Frank (Chesty) Moseley of unwhipped Virginia Tech, ex-Alabama quarterback and brother of local sports editor Max Moseley, new phenom Darrell Royal of Mississippi State and Harvey Robinson, who was appointed before he became Tennessee's Thanksgiving Day turkey.

In Faurot, and inside the warmth of the dressing room at Crampton Bowl—actually, it's half a bowl, concrete on one side, bleachers on the other—you find a champion of the Rose Bowl, Orange Bowl team selection plan. As a Big Seven participant, though, this isn't shocking.

"What else would you see out of our conference," he said, "but Oklahoma, year after year? Aside from that, though, I think it's better for the boys. Give more teams the chance to go, give more boys the chance to learn something."

"At Missouri we got invited to the Gator Bowl in 1948. Our boys fell all over themselves to go. When we were invited back the next year we almost had to horsewhip them into going. The boys who hadn't been wanted to go, but the veterans were against it. The thrill wears off. I think everybody would get tired of Oklahoma playing in the Orange Bowl every year, including the Oklahoma players."

This Blue-Gray game, he said, this is the postseason at its best. New boys, light work, offensive laboratory and no push-or-pull to win. Just pay the bills; that's all Champ Pickens wants. Montgomery has been paid off in amounts of national attention that you can't measure. But like somebody must have said back when Caesar was winning everything, you can't pay the rent with a scrapbook.

Tennessee halfback Jimmy Wade and Tulane end Eddie Bravo were selected alternate captains of the Dixie squad.

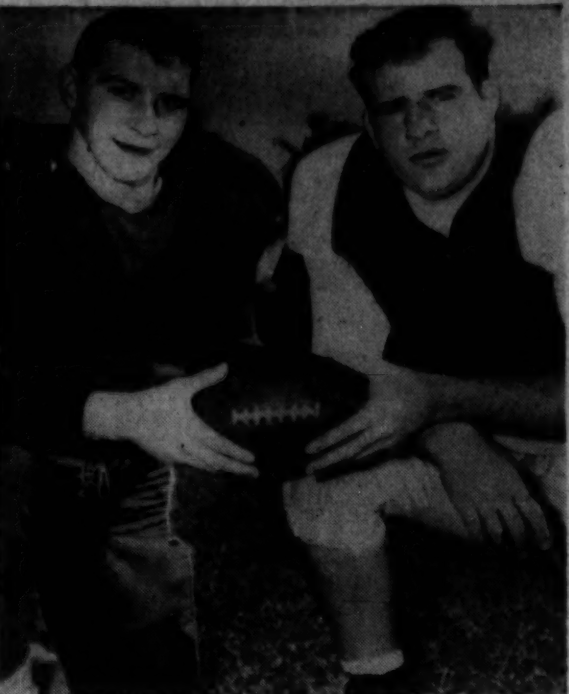

Confederate coach Frank Moseley of VPI sent his recruits through a brief but rugged scrimmage today, but northern mentor Don Faurot of Missouri continued to harp on fundamentals.

Cats Bully LaSalle In Title Tilt, 63-54

Evans, Burrow Pop in 20, 18;
Southern Cal. Trips Up Utah

By KYLE VANCE

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 22 (AP)—Kentucky brushed off a game comeback try by LaSalle, 63-54, to take the title game tonight of its own Invitational Tournament for the second straight year.

The Wildcats, winning their 30th consecutive game and their 128th in a row at home, built 15-point leads twice, let LaSalle close in both times, but won handily in the showdown.

Southern California, a never-say-die upstart, came from 15 points behind to surprise second-ranking Utah, 54-52, in the consolation game.

Kentucky had all of its guns working tonight, but the big offensive fireworks were provided by Bob (Mr. Inside) Burrow and Billy (Mr. Outside) Evans who scored 18 and 20 points, respectively.

The combination was too much for a tight zone defense thrown up by the Explorers. As usual, Tom Gola was LaSalle's leading man on the firing line. He fed 20 points through the hoops but was held to 6 field goals.

Kentucky, hitting hard with its fast break in the opening minutes, threatened a runaway before the Pennsylvanians found the range.

The Wildcats walked to a

NEW YORK, Dec. 22—The rise of the New York Giants from fifth place in 1953 to the National League championship and a four-game sweep over Cleveland in the World Series was rated the "comeback of the year" of 1954 in the 24th annual year-end Associated Press poll.

Thirty-nine sports writers and sportscasters of the nation voted the surge of the Giants the No. 1 comeback with the return of fabulous Babe Didrikson Zaharias to the golfing heights rated second.

On a basis of three points for first, two for second and one for third, the Giants received 159 points. The amazing Babe, who made a successful battle against cancer in '53 and was cited for the "comeback of 1953," collected 58 points and 13 first place votes.

The resurgence of Arkansas' football team, winner of the Southwest Conference pennant, was ranked third with 49 points, followed by the Cleveland Browns, for their recovery from a dismal start this season, 47; Ted Williams, slugging star of the Boston Red Sox, 41; Bob Feller, veteran Cleveland pitcher, 28; Lightweight champion Jimmy Carter, who regained his title for the second time, 23; and Leo Durocher's comeback with a world championship team, 21.

Fifth the year before with a 70-84 record and 35 games behind the pennant winning Brooklyn Dodgers, the colorful Giants took over first place for good on June 15 and won by five games with a 97-57 record. This was 27 games better than their pace of 1953.

The trade of Bobby Thomson to the Milwaukee Braves for Johnny Antonelli, and the astonishing feat of 23-year-old Willie Mays, were key factors in the rejuvenation of the Giants. Antonelli had an impressive 21-7 won-lost record and led the majors in earned runs with a superb 2.29 mark. Mays, a great fielder as well as a long ball clouter, paced the majors in both batting (.345) and slugging (.667).

The consistent hitting of outfielder Don Mueller, the clutch playing of shortstop Alvin Dark, the outstanding relief hurling of Hoyt Wilhelm and Marv Grissom and the amazing pinchhitting of Dusty Rhodes and Durocher's uncanny "hunches" also contributed mightily to the Giants' triumphs in the pennant race and World Series.

Mrs. Zaharias, 41 when she began a new campaign in February, opened a new chapter in her fabulous career by winning the Scripps Invitational Tournament in February. She went on to win four more tournaments, including the most important of them all, the Women's National Open championship. She swept that by 12 strokes.

Arkansas, after a poor 3-7 season in '53 and playing under a new coach, Bowden Wyatt, wasn't rated a chance in the Southwest race. But the Razorbacks surprised the nation by winning their first seven games, the Southwest title and a berth in the Cotton Bowl.

Brown's Men Must Get 'Up' or Go Down

Coach Glad Clevelanders Will at Least 'Play Game'

CLEVELAND, Dec. 22 (AP)—Paul Brown, by no means conceding the pro football championship to Detroit, remarked dourly today: "Well, at least they're going to let us play the game, aren't they?"

That came after the wily coach's Cleveland Browns lost the last game of the regular season to the Lions, 14-10, and after odds makers decided the Lions should be favored by 2½ points.

Brown, whose Clevelanders lost their last three shots at the National Football League title, used a similar remark earlier this year. That was after he heard Coach Buck Shaw of the San Francisco 49ers had predicted this year's Browns would not get to the championship playoff.

Snow was scraped off the Browns' practice field today for the first workout in preparation for Sunday's game at Municipal Stadium.

The workout followed the usual Brown pattern with morning and afternoon sessions, work on the field and a motion picture of the licking the Lions handed out Sunday.

A lot of time was spent on passing and pass defense. Last week as the regular season ended, the Browns threw only six times. Normally they pass about half the time they have the ball. Cold or snow notwithstanding, they undoubtedly expect to pitch more this time.

The Lions did Sunday, scoring the winning touchdown on a toss from Bobby Layne to Jug Girard just 50 seconds from the end of the game.

A similar pass by Layne won last year's title playoff against the Browns, with just a little more than two minutes to go.

The Browns have never missed a championship playoff since they were organized in 1946. But neither have they won one since 1950. They won it all during the four years the All-America conference existed and then again in 1950, their first season in this league.

But then they lost to Los Angeles and twice to the Lions.

Brown, who is credited in Cleveland with being a rather expert psychologist, says he is using nothing special to get his club "up" for this game.

"This is the big one," he explained. "They'll either get 'up' or they'll take a licking."

Brown, who hates the idea of losing, does not expect his employees to take kindly towards it, either.

Two Cleveland backs, Billy Reynolds and Maurice Bassett, were injured Sunday.

Dumont television will broadcast the game. Kickoff is 2 p.m. EST.

BEN HILL WINTER RESIDENTS, MR. AND MRS. D. C. (PEAHEAD) WALKER
Montreal Coach To Spend Off Season Scouting For New Alouettes Talent

—HE'S HAPPY IN CANADA—

Walker Says U.S. Professionals Have a Better Bench, That's All

By BERT PRATHER

How do Canadian professional football teams compare to our own National Professional Football League clubs? The "bench" is really the only difference, thinks Douglas Clyde (Peahead) Walker, coach of the Montreal Alouettes of Canada's Big Four League.

Peahead, who made his debut as coach of the Alouettes three years ago following a highly successful stand as head coach at Wake Forest and as assistant to Herman Hickman at Yale, made the comparison while discussing his favorite subject out at the Ben Hill home of Mrs. J. R. White. Coach Walker and wife plan to spend the off-season with Mrs. White.

"After three years of coaching in the Canadian League, I believe our first teams are about on a par with the U.S. pros, but when you get down to the reserves, they have much better talent," he said.

"The answer to this is that we are permitted only 10 U.S. players on our squads of 32. The Canadian players haven't had the highly organized coaching nor the competition of the American college players."

"Of course there are a few exceptions to this, Doug McNichol, our 6-5, 235-pound end who played his college football at West Ontario College (London, Ontario) is as good as I've ever seen anywhere. He's a great defensive man and could make anyone's club."

"But the apple of Peahead's eye is Sam Etcheverry from Denver University. Sam plays quarterback for Montreal and is the best in the league. He was overlooked by NFL scouts, but he's the man who makes the Alouettes go. 'A fine runner and a great passer,' says Peahead. "Why, you know that fellow tossed 26 touchdown passes for us the past season."

Other standout U.S. players on Walker's club are Tex Coulter, former Army ace; Alex Webster of N.C. State;

Red O'Quinn of Wake Forest; Harold Patterson of Kansas, and Chuck Hunsinger of Florida.

Televising of this fall's Canadian games by the National Broadcasting Co. to the U.S. was the best thing that has happened to Canadian football since it went bigtime back in 1946, says Walker. "It put us on the map down this way and convinced U.S. players they would not become 'lost' publicity-wise if they cast their lot with us," he said.

Peahead, who has won a new two-year contract from his bosses, said he is looking for a tackle, back, center and end. He's particularly interested in LSU's All-America tackle, Sid Fournet. "That name would be a great help to him up there. About two-thirds of the population of Montreal is French," Walker said.

Walker has also contacted

Oklahoma's center Kurt Burris and end Max Boydston; Rice back Dick Moegle; Wisconsin fullback Alon Ameche and South Carolina's guard Frank Mineevich.

He said he planned to talk to Tech's Larry Morris, and ex-Tech star Ray Beck, who is soon to be discharged from the Army.

Walker will interview some of the Blue and Gray players at Montgomery and then travel to Jacksonville for the Gator Bowl game between Auburn and Baylor.

Though Peahead didn't mention it, Mrs. Walker's scrap book revealed that the Alabama native had made quite a hit with the Montreal fans. After all, that is logical, since he piloted the team to the Grey Cup playoffs where they lost in the last minute of play on a bobble, by one of his star backs.

Carpenter, Wyatt Remade Blocking Slot

(Editor's Note: Who are the blockers behind the big names at Arkansas? The Constitution went to the newspaperman who knows best and he tells you in a series of four articles about the personnel of Georgia Tech's Cotton Bowl opponent. Today's backfield story is the last of the series.)

By ORVILLE HENRY
Sports Editor, The Arkansas Gazette
LITTLE ROCK, Dec. 22—Arkansas' most valuable back is, of all people, a blocking back. He's Preston Carpenter, a 6-2, 185-pound galloper and an all-round workhorse who could be the Hogs' most dangerous clutch player against Georgia Tech in the Cotton Bowl.

First, however, it should be explained that the blocking back in Bowden Wyatt's variation of the Tennessee single wing is not the old glorified guard. He's a primary blocker, all right, and has to be a great one, but he's also the favorite pass receiver.

Carpenter will float ahead of the tailback on the old running pass, an often-used weapon, and he'll also set up as a weak-side flanker. Once he gets the ball he's the team's top runner. He took 21 passes for 284 yards and two touchdowns. One score was on a 30-yard pass-and-run against Baylor, the other on a 66-yard pass-and-run against

GETTING THE JOINTS READY FOR COTTON BOWL

Ole Miss—for the score that left it 6-0, Arkansas, at the finish.

Carpenter's running mate is Captain Bobby Proctor, intrepid 165-pound senior, who is the team's fiercest tackler.

They help look after the rookie tailbacks, George Walker, the picture player, and Buddy Benson, a scatback of the old school. The 6-1, 175-pound Walker, destined for greatness, was the hero through Arkansas' six-game conference schedule, doing a flawless job of calling plays and kicking, running beautifully where it was thickest, and passing as well as the departed Lamar McLean did as a senior. Benson passed rarely but ran them dizzy around the flanks.

The important yardage was earned all the way, however, by fullback Henry Moore, a swift and shifty runner for whom the much-discussed draw series was built. He broke through TCU for 48 yards, Texas for 82 and all along dived and sprinted through and around 'em for lesser gains to make up a season's total of 667. He averaged a TD a league game—six in all.

Moore carried more than half the load because Joe Bill Wilson, his senior substitute, labored under a sacroiliac condition. Wilson is faster than Moore but not as shifty.

The wingbacks averaged only two yards a play—carrying only 18 times all year—but they excelled as blockers, on defense and as pass receivers. Little Joe Thomason, a tender 147-pounder, caught eight important ones for 114 yards. Ronnie Underwood, a tall soph, took four for 88. He is potentially a great runner and receiver.

Sophomore Walker, a terrific safety and pass defender, Carpenter and Moore all were prominent when the Southwest honors were passed out. Moore made the official all-conference team at fullback.

Moore and Walker team best on the draw series, similar to pass-trap stuff of T teams, and Wyatt has devised four or more runs and passes off the threat of the delayed run up the middle through a hole made by trap blocking. No other single wing team has ever used the series. The tailback's handoff to the fullback is patterned exactly after the belly fake or handoff used by Bobby Dodd's team.

Van Brocklin Leads Rams To Yard Title

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 22 (AP)—Led by Norm Van Brocklin, the Los Angeles Rams captured the 1954 total yardage championship of the National Football League but fell 319 yards short of their 1951 league record of 5,506 yards.

The NFL said today the Rams gained 5,187 yards in winning their third yardage crown in five seasons. The team gained 2,140 yards rushing and 3,047 passing.

Van Brocklin took the passing laurels in the league with 139 completions for 2,637 yards and 13 TDs. He completed 83.5 per cent of his passes and had 21 interceptions.

Two season records were set this year: one by the Philadelphia Eagles and the other by the teams generally.

The Eagles passed for 33 touchdowns, two more than the Rams when they set the previous record in 1950. The twelve teams in the league broke a record in successful field goals with 119, eleven more than last year.

Chicago Bears in passing with 3,104 yards. Cleveland in passes completed with 59 per cent.

Pittsburgh in punting honors for the second straight year with a 43.2 average per kick by Pat Hardy.

Detroit the best defensive team against passing, allowing opponents to complete 41.4 per cent of their passes.

Cleveland for best defensive team against rushing yielding 2.8 yards per opponent carry.

Individual leaders included: Bobby Watson, Philadelphia, in scoring with 114 points—11 TDs, 36 conversions and four field goals.
Pete Pihos, Philadelphia, and Billy Wilson, San Francisco, in pass receiving, each catching 60.
Vern Riffe, Green Bay, in punt returns with a 12.6 yard average.
Billy Reynolds, Cleveland, in kickoff returns with a 29.5 yard average.
Dick Lane, Chicago Cardinals, in pass interceptions, with 10 for 181 yards.

Gabe Paul Signs Again

CINCINNATI, Dec. 22 (AP)—Gabe Paul today signed a new contract as general manager of the Cincinnati Redlegs. It will expire Oct. 31, 1958.

Paul and Powell Croley reached an agreement at a luncheon.

"I want to express appreciation for the confidence placed in me by Mr. Croley," Paul said in a statement.

"I will always remember his willingness to gamble on an untried fellow as general manager in 1951. It has been a wonderful association and I am thrilled that I am having the opportunity to continue."

Paul was named general manager on Sept. 27, 1951, after Warren C. Giles resigned to become president of the National League.

ATLANTA BACK SET TO PLAY, ALL 102 POUNDS OF HIM

FRANKFURT, Germany, Dec. 22 (AP)—A 102-pound quarterback will play in the U.S. Army-Air Force "Milk Bowl" football game in Wiesbaden on New Year's Day.

That's right, 102 pounds. The mosquito-weight signal caller is Charles Calhoun of Atlanta, Ga.

In an interview, Charlie told reporters: "I'm not afraid of being hurt in the game. I'm as tough as the others."

And he isn't kidding.

Fact is, no one else on either squad weighs more than 105 pounds.

The teams are composed of youngsters whose fathers are in the Army or Air Force.

The "Milk Bowl" game was sponsored by the Frankfurt Parent Youth Association and the Wiesbaden Boosters Association.

Heavy-Hitting Pair Pace League Positions With Gloves

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—Cincinnati's Ted Kluszewski and Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, both of whom are better known for their hefty hitting, distinguished themselves as fielders during the 1954 season.

Official fielding averages released by the National League today disclosed that Kluszewski led the first baseman with a defensive figure of .996, the fourth consecutive season he's finished on top which equals the major league mark held by four others.

Musial compiled a fielding average of .990 to head the outfielders.

He made only three errors in 287 chances. Frank Thomas of Pittsburgh was next with .983.

Davey Williams of the champion New York Giants was the defensive standout among National League second basemen. Williams committed 14 errors while handling 763 chances, averaging .982.

Johnny Logan, top shortstop, fielded .969 on 26 errors in 839 chances and Willie Jones, top third baseman, erred 15 times in 476 chances for .968.

Bill Sarni of St. Louis was the defensive pace-setter among the catchers. In 118 games, he made only two errors while handling 529 chances for a .996 mark.

Rookie Bob Purkey of Pittsburgh was the best fielding pitcher, handling 56 chances without a miscue. Milwaukee and Cincinnati were the top fielding teams. The Braves compiled the highest fielding average .981. The Redlegs produced the most double plays, 194, tying the league mark they set in 1928 and equaled in 1931.

South 7-Point Choice In Miami Classic

Good Backs, Drive Series
Stir Gustafson Confidence

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 22 (AP)—The South was established today as a 7-point favorite to win the North-South college all-star football game here Christmas night and the Rebel coach, Andy Gustafson of Miami, agreed with the odds-makers.

"They'll have a devil of a time trying to stop our backs," Gustafson said happily. "We'll beat 'em—three touchdowns to two."

Optimism by the coaches helps to pull out the crowds for this annual classic—played for the benefit of the Shrine's crippled kids—and Gustafson was taking full advantage of the rare chance to loosen up and say what he really thinks.

The Miami coach had plenty of reason to be confident today as he watched his 23-man squad, which includes two All-America players and hand-picked stars from 16 southern teams.

Dixie's teams have dominated the seven-game all-star series, winning five times, and Gustafson declared "we'll have much more running power than any other team ever had for this game."

Directing the attack will be the man who knows it best—Miami's quarterback Carl Garrigus, a deceptive ball handler and a constant threat on option plays because of his equally dangerous running and passing ability.

With Garrigus in the starting offensive backfield will be halfbacks Buddy Leake of Oklahoma and Larry Parker of North Carolina and fullback Dick Bielski of Maryland.

Gustafson said he plans to use this line on offense: Ends, All-America Frank McDonald and Tom Pepsin of Miami; tackles, Arch Cassidy of Florida and Charles Coates of Tulane; guards, John Bowersox of Maryland and

Cabiness Wasn't a Prep Fluke; He's Proving That With Bullpups

By ROBERT WYNN

ATHENS, Dec. 22—Averaging 83 points a game and possessing a big center who has poured in an average of 30 per outting, Georgia's high-flying freshmen basketball squad is currently sporting a 3-0 record.

Thus far, this Bullpup crew has downed Furman's freshmen, 77-74; Clemson's freshmen, 79-77; and Young Harris Junior College, 93-88.

The victory over Furman broke a 28-game winning streak for the Purple Hurricane on their own home court. The Clemson squad was considered one of the best frosh teams in Tiger history. And the triumph over Young Harris was the first loss handed the Mountain Lions on their home court in four years.

Big Henry Cabiness, a 6-5½ standout at Oglethorpe County High School last year, has led the Bullpup scoring attack with 22, 19 and 43 points for a total of 90 points and an average of 30.

The big center, of whom Bullpup varsity mentor Harlan

"Red" Lawson is expecting great things, averaged 39 points per game for Oglethorpe County last year.

Cabiness is, however, no one-man team. The lowest average among the remainder of the starting five is a healthy 9.7 owned by Harry Blumheim of Atlanta's Russell High.

Following Cabiness in the Bullpup scoring parade are Entorpe's Billy Hearn with a 14.7 average, Richmond Academy's Ray Allen with 13.0, Brown High's Don Hartfield with 12.3 and Blumheim. Cabiness, Allen and Hearn haven't dropped under 11 in any game.

Bullpup coach Charles Earnest, former Bulldog grid star, believes he has one of the best offensive frosh teams he has ever seen, but explains that they must improve considerably to finish their schedule with even nearly the success they have shown thus far.

Cabiness says the Bullpups have the best Georgia

COLLEGE CORNER

N.C.'s Likins Rode Rougher Roads to Rhodes Exams at Emory

By LARRY FOX

LAST WEEKEND a group of bright young men gathered at Emory University to undergo interviews in competition for Rhodes scholarships. One of them had more trouble getting there than the rest. His name was Paul Likins.

Hometown: Elkhart, Ind. School affiliation: North Carolina. Outstanding characteristics: Height of 6 feet, 9 inches. Claims to fame: Straight A average, starting center on the Tar Heel basketball team. Likins had to leave practice early Friday afternoon to fly to Atlanta, undergo his interview Saturday morning and then hop another plane to Virginia where the Tar Heels were playing William & Mary that night. As the players huddled at the sideline before the opening tip-off, Coach Frank Mc-Guire read a telegram. Likins had won a Rhodes Scholarship. . . . Overlooked in the brief wire accounts was the fact that Georgia quarterback Jimmy Harper made third-team on the scholastic all-America. He's an all-A student. . . . Vanderbilt awarded freshman football numerals to center Sam Allen and tackle Wayne Hall of Griffin and halfback Billy Bob Redford of Decatur.

IRONICAL-NOTE-DEPT.: North Carolina State has one of the two or three best basketball teams in the South and not only isn't there a North Carolinian on the Wolfpack varsity but there isn't a Southerner, either. Only man from below the Mason-Dixon is center Ronnie Shavlik of Denver, who hardly qualifies to sing the Stars and Bars. And N.C. State is host team to the "Dixie" Classic, yet.

WONDER WHERE Kentucky's Phil (Cookie) Grawmeyer got his nickname? It's from that old song, "Lookie, Lookie, Here Comes

Ronnie Shavlik Adolph Rupp Jimmy Harper
Cookie," which was popular just when Grawmeyer was stretching out into a gangly youth of exceptional height. . . . And Kentucky Coach Adolph Rupp says that Fort Valley's fabulous Ed Beck is more than living up to his advance notices as a Wildcat basketball prospect. He's on the freshman team now. . . . They say one reason Bill Young finally got the gate at Furman was his golfing ability. The fathers of the Baptist school didn't mind his playing golf on Sundays but he was so good he was always winning tournaments and publicizing the fact.

People who've been running down the Orange Bowl's tie-up with the Big Seven and Atlantic Coast Conferences have overlooked one TV fact of life the Gator Bowl is learning this year. By lining up the area from which your teams will be drawn every year, it is possible to go to a sponsor in advance with something real to sell. He can then check the areas from which the teams are drawn for such things as number of TV outlets and market for his product. Until the Gator Bowl got its teams lined up, no sale could be made for a TV network for sponsors couldn't tell if the teams would come from Nebraska, Oregon, Massachusetts or Hawaii. Now the Gator Bowl folks are hopeful of arranging a regional TV network of some kind.

Tarkenton Brothers Boost Athens' Hopes

Clark Countians Undefeated
After Four Region Contests

By JIMMY MANN

Constitution Sports Writer

ATHENS, Dec. 22—Region 4-A is no joke this season. It hasn't been exactly that in the past, when Coach Arnold DeLaPerriere's Athens Trojans have been able to handle things for the past two years in the family. But they're rancine up on them this season.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Snider Inks Contract, So Does Dorish

Three major leaguers signed their 1955 contracts Wednesday: Right-handed pitcher Harry Dorish with the Chicago White Sox; Duke Snider, Brooklyn Dodger outfielder, and Eddie Lopat, the New York Yankees' junk - pitching southpaw.

Dorish (who posted a 2.72 ERA last season with a 6-4 record for 37 appearances, is the ninth Chisoxer to sign. Snider was the fourth Dodger to agree to his contract, estimated somewhat higher than last year's.

Sports in Brief

because of his .341 hitting and leading the league in total bases in 1954, with 378.

Lopat, known for his ability to whip the American league champion Cleveland Indians, reportedly got slightly less than $25,000.

FOOTBALL: Florida State University and the University of Louisville have called off their football game set for next Sept. 24, because FSU reportedly wants a stronger opponent. . . . Ohio State's Woody Hayes said his team is in "perfect physical shape" for the Rose Bowl battle Jan. 1 against UCLA. . . . A Midwest sports writers group voted Colorado's hard working halfback, Frank Bernardi outstanding back in the Big Seven-Missouri Valley area. . . . Baylor's football team disbanded after two weeks of preparation for their Gator Bowl game against Auburn Jan. 1. . . . Police were called out to assure undisturbed practice for the East squad in Santa Clara, and head coach Dr. Eddie Anderson said he would not scrimmage the team at all for the East-West shrine game.

A ticket through the region is one well into the thick of the state fight this fall. A shuffle in the region has placed Athens with fast company. The crowd includes Druid Hills, for two straight years class-A state champions; Hartwell, Southwest DeKalb, Campbell of Fairburn, Elberton, Campbell of Smyrna and Avondale, all teams veterans of the state tournament in Atlanta last spring.

Athens began its move slowly, after its third straight region title, this year. Late football playoffs forced DeLaPerriere to work his courtmen without some of his top performers—eight to be exact. But these absences proved nothing, the Trojans won two without the gridders and then raced through four more pre-Christmas tries without setback. They have region wins over Avondale, Toccoa, Winder and Gainesville.

There's no crying at Athens over 1954 losses, however. Chester Leathers, now romping for the University of Georgia, froth, and Hubert Bradley had a big hand in the success of the squad a year ago. Dallas and Francis Tarkenton, a senior and sophomore point-producing brother act, give the Trojans the spark they need to again be a title contender.

Dallas, 6-1, is the No. 1 center on the club and has proved effective with his hook shots and terrific rebounding. Brother Francis, just a second-year man, but one with plenty of experience.

Things look bright for next season at Athens, too. Of the other three starting berths, three of them are filled by non-seniors. They are juniors George Gulsier (5-11), guard, and Valdon Smith (5-10), forward. Senior forward Harold Westervelt (5-11) completes the starting troop. While football was monopolizing the athletes at Athens, nonletterman Harry Saye (5-11), a junior forward, took care of one of the vacancies.

For seven seasons DeLaPerriere has been coaching basketball at Athens and his clubs have won 136 regular season games and lost only 21. Five times the clubs have taken down the region banner and on the other two occasions they were the No. 2 team. At least one player under DeLaPerriere has made All-State each year. That's some record.

Akins' Dusting Nets For College Park

Coach Harlan Harris Praises
Lassie; Boys To Improve

By MORT PERSKY

College Park's Gloria Akins can shoot. She can move well, too, but she doesn't have to move far even when opponents gang up on her.

"Gloria shoots just as well from a group of newcomers to College Park court action, seeing to it that Akins and forward helpers Beverly Haynes, Chick Shellnut and Betty Jones get the ball to shoot. Haynes is a ninth-grader whose 17 points in the sextet's last outing has coach Harris' fingers crossed through the holidays.

Earwood does most of the backboard patrol duty, but gets willing assistance from Bobbie Bell, Betty Jo Yarborough and Jeannette Harris. Ronald Peavy (20 points a game) and big center Neal Barnton (a 16-point man) keep Harris from giving up his hopes for the boys, even though their record is no food for optimism.

In their four region losses, Harris found the Rams outclassed by only Campbell of Fairburn, Campbell of Smyrna and Avondale won from College Park, but were behind for three quarters. Druid Hills recovered from a halftime deficit to conquer the Rams, too.

"That," says Harris, "is what inexperience will do for you."

CHRISTMAS!—IT'S EVERYWHERE!—Sunsuits or snow, Christmas scenes brighten the nation from coast to coast. (Left to right) Barefooted Judy Kettenhoft, eating ice cream, has words with Santa in

Senate Democrats To Go Slow In Bucking Eisenhower Plans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—The Senate Democratic hierarchy will proceed only slowly and with the greatest of care in offering counter-proposals to the Eisenhower legislative program.

The party's Senate leader, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, will sanction no major challenge in this field to the administration until the President's own proposals have been long digested and until something approaching massive Democratic support is gathered for alternatives.

It is entirely probable, indeed, that no general Democratic legislative policy will be developed until the new Democratic-controlled 84th Congress has been some 60 days in session.

Individual Democrats, including Paul M. Butler, the party's new national chairman, will be discouraged in the meantime from all utterances that might be interpreted as prematurely partisan.

JOHNSON-RAYBURN

All this was made clear today by Sen. Johnson by telephone from his home in Austin, Texas. He has been recently in touch with the Democratic leader of the House of Representatives, Sam Rayburn of Texas, who will become speaker of the House when Congress convenes on Jan. 5.

Sen. Johnson's view of the proper Democratic approach, of which Rayburn may be said to be entirely aware though not necessarily in total agreement, is about as follows:

1. The Democrats in Congress will be bound by their convictions, by national necessity and by the extraordinary overtures made to them for bi-partisanship by the President, to go along loyally with him on high foreign policy barring some unforeseen shift in that policy.

2. They will seek to develop the strongest possible domestic issues with the President and the Republicans generally against the 1956 presidential year.

3. They will attempt to do this, however, in concert rather than by the actions of individual factions, on the theory that when they do challenge the President they ought to be unified among themselves and sure of their ground as well.

Sen. Johnson regards such a procedure not only as wise to avoid putting the Democrats in early exposed position but as the soundest political approach to the 1956 elections.

He feels that Butler would have done well not to begin attacking the administration and the President so soon, and particularly not until the President's state of the union message, in which he will outline his legislative requests, had been delivered and considered by the country.

SPEECH JAN. 6
That message will be given personally by the President to a joint session of Congress on Jan. 6.

Sen. Johnson is aware that some in his party are impatient to go after the Republicans at once, now that the Democrats are shortly to be in control at the Capitol. He is aware, too, that some Democrats will be restive under a leadership policy of going very slowly.

In readiness for such criticism, he has made an informal study of the Democratic record in the last Congress in support of his contention that "fights should not be started until we are prepared to win them."

This study recalls that on 12 critical issues in the last Congress the Senate Democrats voted together by percentages never less than 86, and on four occasions by percentages of 100.

It lists also the legislative areas in which Johnson expects major battles—farm relief, labor, taxes, public versus private power, land reclamation in the West and so on.

Wisconsin's Farm Vote Put in Democratic Fold

RACINE, Wis., Dec. 22 (AP)—The Wisconsin Agriculturalist, the state's leading farm magazine, said today Wisconsin farmers moved into the Democratic column the first time in two decades in the last election.

The magazine, which serves over 200,000 farmers, said a survey of the vote in rural townships showed farmers favored Democratic gubernatorial candidate William Proxmire by 52 per cent.

The Agriculturalist said it determined a rural township as those where 80 per cent of the adults were farm people.

The magazine said, in an article scheduled for publication in the Jan. 1 issue, that 60,721 persons in the rural townships voted for Proxmire. It said 55,466 voted to reelect Republican Gov. Walter Kohler.

The magazine said the shift from the 1932 governor's race was a "very decided one." At that time Kohler received 70.3 per cent of the actual farm vote and Proxmire 29.7 per cent.

"In the elections in the 1940s no Democrat had received more than 35 per cent of the farm vote for governor," it said.

Editor's Darkest Moment: He 'Killed' Santa

BISBEE, Ariz., Dec. 22 (AP)—Approach of Christmas always brings remorse to an Arizona newspaper editor who once "killed" Santa Claus.

The "guilty" man is John C. McPhee, managing editor of the Bisbee Daily Review. He was editor of the Mesa (Ariz.) Journal-Tribune when the "crime" was committed in 1930.

"Twenty-four years later he says his conscience still hurts and he knows many Mesa mothers 'will never forget or forgive me.'"

"This is his confession: 'I dreamed up the bright idea of having Santa Claus jump from an airplane at the edge of town and lead a parade.'

"I arranged with a barnstormer to jump, land in a field and suddenly appear in a car, leading the parade."

"The town was filling with the largest crowd in its history when I learned my daredevil was so full of Christmas cheer that he couldn't jump."

"I'm the man who 'killed' Santa Claus and I'm sorry."

"Children cried, mothers screamed and the town was in an uproar."

"I attempted to rise to the occasion and have the parade with the live Santa but when he arrived it was a ghost town."

Judge Frees $3 Robber To Save Legs

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 (AP)—A man who has served 11 years for a $3 holdup pleaded for freedom today to save his legs and perhaps his life. He won his plea.

"I cannot find it in my heart to send you back to prison," said Judge Samuel Leibowitz to the man in the wheelchair, John Ferguson, 38.

Ferguson went to prison for 10 to 30 years after a taxi holdup in 1943. He was paroled in 1950, but sent back after he violated the parole in two ways—opening a charge account and living with a woman not his wife.

After his second commitment, Ferguson developed Hodgkins Disease.

He said prison doctors had repeatedly asked him permission to amputate both legs and he refused each time. Recently, he said, he learned that a surgeon had said if he could operate, Ferguson probably would walk again.

He told the judge he wouldn't take the chance on the dangerous operation if he had to go back to prison. But if he could be free afterward, he would risk it.

Mississippi School Plan Vote Is 2-1

JACKSON, Miss., Dec. 22 (AP)—Mississippi joined South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana today in a states' rights movement to maintain school segregation as voters overwhelmingly approved legislative power to abolish public schools if necessary.

Complete but unofficial returns from yesterday's election from 1,269 of the state's 1,820 precincts gave $9,434 votes favoring the proposed constitutional amendment and 38,341 against.

LAST RESORT
Gov. Hugh White, staunchest backer of the amendment, said the abolition of the state's public school system would be made only as a last resort to maintain segregation. White said he expected to call a special legislative session Jan. 11 to provide funds for equalizing school facilities for Negro students.

The amendment, approved during a session of the Legislature earlier this year, would permit the Legislature to turn school facilities over to private groups and to subsidize private schools.

The turnout for the election was light because passage of the amendment was assured since White and other leading legislators had advocated approval. The total vote represented less than one-half of the state's 450,000 registered voters. Negroes could vote, but only a small percentage of registered Negro voters turned out.

FEARS EARLY USE
State Rep. Joel Blass, who led the opposition to adoption of the amendment, said he thought "an attempt will be made to use it in January of next year on the local level. I expect to see the (school fund) appropriation made contingent upon the Legislature allowing abolition of schools on a local level."

Blass said he then expects "within less than a year's time there will be certain counties or districts in which the schools will be abolished."

GETS JOB BACK

Secretary's Tears Not Due Cause

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 (AP)—A government attorney, who was fired because he made his secretary cry, was ordered reinstated in his job today by Federal Judge Charles McLaughlin.

The attorney, A. Lincoln Green, brought suit in Federal District Court, charging his dismissal violated the Veterans Preference Act. The act says government-employed veterans can be fired only for due cause.

Green lost his job in the Federal National Mortgage Assn. two years ago because he was "rude and discourteous to stenographers assigned to him."

The agency charged that in one case, when his secretary forgot to bring him a notebook, Green "flew into a rage" and used "obscene language" which made the secretary cry.

In his ruling Judge McLaughlin said: "The charge lacks specificity and fails to conform to procedural requirement laid down by law." He awarded Green a declaratory judgment with the recommendation he be restored to his job.

STORY ON TELEVISION

Negro School's Appeal Brings in $400,000

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 22 (AP)—A television appeal to help expand a Negro school in a small Mississippi community has brought an estimated $400,000 in a week.

NBC announced today that 66 bags of mail already processed contained $217,500 for the school of Dr. L. C. Jones, 70, who appealed Dec. 15 on Ralph Edwards' "This Is Your Life" Program.

Another 64 bags of mail are not yet processed. NBC said these are expected to contain an additional $200,000.

Edwards last week told the story of the Negro educator who started teaching two students while using a pine log for his out-of-doors desk. His school now covers 16,000 acres and he has 500 students. Edwards made an appeal for one million people to send in one dollar each to assure expansion and continuation of the institution.

Fire Kills 3 Hunting Yule Gifts

AUSTIN, Minn., Dec. 22 (AP)—Three young children, apparently using matches or candles to search for hidden Christmas presents, were burned to death tonight when they were trapped by flames in the attic closet of their small home.

Firemen attempted to rescue the youngsters but were beaten back by the flames.

Fire department Capt. Scotty Blowers said the fire started from matches or a candle.

"The kids were looking for something," he said, "it was probably Christmas presents."

The bodies of 5-year-old twins Donald and Darold Bottleson, and their 3-year-old sister, Janice, were found huddled in the corner of the narrow closet.

"The kids didn't have a chance. The flames must have spread quickly," Blowers said.

Mrs. Bottleson, who became hysterical at the scene, ran out of the house with her youngest child, Chris, who'll be 2 next February. She was hospitalized, suffering from shock. The boy was taken to a neighbor's.

Baton for Von Karajan
BERLIN, Dec. 22 (AP)—Austrian conductor Herbert Von Karajan will conduct the Berlin philharmonic orchestra on its first concert tour of the United States and Canada, beginning Feb. 27, it was announced today.

The money, NBC said, has been deposited with the Deposit Guarantee Bank and Trust in Jackson, Miss., near Piney Woods.

Firemen Unplugged in San Diego, Wired for Blankets in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22 (AP)—There's a decided difference of opinion hereabout on how firemen should keep warm. George Courser, chief of the San Diego fire department, ordered electric blankets removed from all fire stations there, saying, "Firemen are supposed to be robust, athletic and ready to jump out of bed."

Keith Klinger, chief engineer of the Los Angeles County fire department, said today new stations will be equipped with electrical outlets near the beds of firemen.

Hoss Thieves (jg) Get Santa Parade Ponies

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 (AP)—Horse thieves, junior grade, are operating in the nation's second largest city.

Two matched brown and white Shetland ponies, which became widely known in Chicago for pulling Santa Claus floats in Christmas parades, were spirited from their south side stable sometime last night.

Firemen attempted to rescue the youngsters but were beaten back by the flames.

Fire department Capt. Scotty Blowers said the fire started from matches or a candle.

Britain Puts Chill on Talks Unless Russia Changes Tact

NEW YORK Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution
LONDON, Dec. 22—The Russian threat to the free world is undiminished but the unity of the West provides a basis for negotiation if the Soviet Union wishes it, Foreign Secretary Eden declared today.

Eden's statement in the House of Commons and the even harder position taken by government sources in private indicate that prospects of an East-West conference early in the new year are diminishing rapidly.

Profitable negotiations with the Soviet Union on Germany are possible only if Russia is willing to accept condition for discussion put forward in the last Allied note to the Russian government, it is said.

PRESSURE INCREASES
Since this note was sent on Nov. 29 there has not been the slightest sign of acceptance of these two conditions by Russia. On the contrary, Soviet diplomatic and propaganda pressure on Western governments has increased.

Consequently the British government, which a month ago welcomed the prospect of talks with Russia, now feels that unless there is a marked improvement in Soviet terms talks would be futile.

It is also appreciated that the new situation created by ratification of the Paris treaties and the start of German rearmament may remove the motive for Soviet initiative on talks.

Ever since signature of the abortive European Defense Community treaty in 1952 it has been argued by Western governments that German rearmament would induce the Soviet Union to negotiate with the East on Germany. German rearmament, it was said, would create a situation of strength for the West which would encourage the Russians to talk.

Sunday Read Real Whodunit And What To Do in Dallas

THE WIDOW DIDN'T CRY until the sheriff came. A true crime story in this Sunday's Atlanta Journal and Constitution Magazine section tells about a Georgia housewife who became enmeshed in circumstantial evidence that pointed the finger of suspicion at her when her husband was found shot to death.

WHAT TO DO IN DALLAS comes under discussion in an entertaining tour guide to this booming Texas metropolis, site of the Cotton Bowl. Of course see Tech meet Arkansas there, but there are other things to see too.

A STAR FELL ON AN ALABAMA and Mrs. Hewitt Hodges, of Sylacauga, became the first person to ever be hit by an object from out of this world. A staff writer tells of her amazing experience in the Dec. 26 issue.

Blood Bank Stocked Up For Holidays

The Atlanta Red Cross Blood Center will have an "adequate supply of blood" for the Christmas holidays for the first time in six years, Harry Boyle, manager of the Atlanta Red Cross Chapter, said Wednesday.

Boyle said the December goal of 3,400 pints for patients in civilian hospitals "already is in sight." "We don't want to discourage people from giving blood—because we can always use it," Boyle said, "but we want to thank the people of the Atlanta area for responding to the appeal for blood at Christmas."

BIG DONORS

The Georgia Division of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. and the Atlanta General Depot have contributed more blood to the Atlanta center than any other organizations.

Lockheed employees have topped the quota of 7,000 pints that they accepted for the calendar year of 1954, Boyle said. The 1954 quota was up 1,000 pints from the previous quota.

Donor of the 7,001st pint of blood at Lockheed was Billy Gene Wood, B-47 assembler, who lives at 611 Shore Dr., Marietta.

405 PINTS IN DAY

Day shift workers at Lockheed recently gave 403 pints of blood in one day—the biggest contribution to the plant's record-shattering total.

The Lockheed plane builders have scheduled a swing shift bloodmobile visit Dec. 28 to help meet the heavy demands for blood expected next week and during the New Year's holiday weekend.

Boyle said Lockheed employees have donated more blood than any other organization in the Southeast.

Ga. Chamber Urges Park At Stone Mt.

The purchase of Stone Mountain and its development as a tourist attraction was urged Wednesday by the Georgia State Chamber of Commerce as negotiations for such purchase continued.

Gov. Talmadge has expressed his willingness for the state to buy the mountain before he goes out of office. And members of the Stone Mountain Park Authority are negotiating with the Venable heirs, owners of the mountain, trying to reach an agreement on price.

In a letter to Talmadge, State Chamber President Jack J. McDonough said that "within the past two years tourist expenditures in Georgia have increased some $50,000,000. This is most convincing evidence that our state's effectiveness is becoming better recognized by the nation's vast traveling public," he added. "This also affords Georgians their greatest opportunity to benefit from previously untapped sources of income," McDonough said.

Stone Mountain is perhaps the greatest natural phenomenon in the nation as yet undeveloped for public enjoyment, he continued. Similar attractions elsewhere which have been developed are now producing over a million dollars annually, he added.

Peyton Hawes, Elberton hotel owner who heads the State Chamber's tourist department, added that the development of Stone Mountain would not only benefit its immediate environs but "would greatly enhance tourist travel throughout the state."

Bonn Minister Hits Allied Black Market

BONN, Germany, Dec. 22 (AP)—Finance Minister Fritz Schaefter charged today that black marketing by Allied forces cost the West German government over $43,000,000 this year.

In his annual report Schaefter said ordinary smuggling across the borders has been almost eliminated.

Between 80 and 90 per cent of the roughly 230,000,000 marks (over $54,000,000) loss to revenue was due to what he called "occupation smuggling."

This was the sale by Allied forces to Germans of coffee, tea, cigarettes, gasoline and nylon stockings they obtained tax free in military post exchanges.

SANTA'S COMING—

Five-year-old James Po-teat of Stewart avenue, looks forward to Christmas even though he will spend it in an iron lung at Grady Hospital. James, stricken with polio in his trailer camp home on Sept. 27, was admitted to Grady the following day under the March of Dimes program. He is shown listening to nurse Katherine Pope explain how Santa will get into the polio ward.

Firefighter Hurt; Edifice Is Razed Here

An early morning fire Wednesday destroyed the Sutherland Produce Co. building at 51 Hunter St. SW, causing damages estimated at $60,000.

Jack W. Turner, 29, of 1723 Flat Shoals Rd., SE, a fireman attached to Station No. 5, received a neck injury when several crates of eggs fell on him inside the building.

Pd. M. R. "Randy" Dodd discovered smoke coming from the building while making his rounds in the section and turned in an alarm.

Fire Inspector R. L. Parker said the fire evidently started in an air compressor under a stairway.

Firemen from four companies battled the flames for more than three hours.
